

MICHAEL CASSIDY ROBBED WHILE ON HIS DEATH BED

Startling Allegations Made by His Widow, Who Says $750 Dissappeared Then.

MATTER IN THE HANDS OF THE POLICE

Since the death of Michael Cassidy a little more than two months ago, his wife, Mrs. Margaret Cassidy, in an attempt to settle the affairs of the estate, has discovered the loss of $750 which she believes was stolen from her husband while he was lying on his death bed. She suspects several parties, but is not determined who she will prefer the serious charge against. Cassidy was one of the best known potters in this city and when he worked made good wages, generally drawing $50 a pay. His only shortcoming was his strong liking for intoxicants. As a result of his frequent spees, his wife left him about six years ago, but notwithstanding she claims to be his legal heir and outside the $750, she has been able to trace every piece of property owned by him.

SENATE PASSES HEINLEIN'S BILL

Provides For Counsel In Divorce Cases Which Are Not Contested.

THREE BILLS FOR VILLAGES

Columbus, March 18.—(Special.)—The senate has passed the bill of Senator Heinlein, authorizing the courts to appoint attorneys to secure evidence and represent the defendant in uncontested divorce cases. This measure is designed to correct a most glaring evil of the divorce laws. In a large percentage of divorce cases the defendant does not appear, which makes it comparatively easy to secure a dissolution of the marital ties. Under the Heinlein bill the court will appoint an attorney who will make a thorough search for evidence which will make it possible to ascertain if the action is based on good grounds.

Mr. Crist introduced three bills in the house yesterday afternoon, all relating to the government of villages. One authorizes boards of trustees of public affairs in villages to contract for the maintenance of machinery in electric light or other public utility; another creates a board of public affairs for villages composed of three members to be elected for three years, beginning in 1905, the board to have charge of the public utilities of the village. At present, under the municipal code this board is appointed by council. The third bill requires village clerks to serve as secretary of the board of public affairs without compensation.

While there he ran out of money and was compelled to send to a local bank and after spending a large portion of it, returned to the city. He again banked his money, but on the Saturday preceding his death he drew it all out again, $750 in gold. The day following he fell ill and died in about 48 hours. That he drew the money and had it in his possession is verified by a statement of the cashier who turned it over to him.

Mrs. Cassidy questioned everybody closely who she thought might know something about the money, but all have expressed total ignorance of it and she has decided to place the matter in the hands of the police.

TRACK WILL BE ALLOWED ACROSS WALNUT STREET

M. F. Davis Will Get the Right Asked to Reach New Storage Plant.

Councilman Moon states that the ordinance giving M. F. Davis the right to lay a track across Walnut street to the proposed storage house will be drafted in a day or so and that it will be passed by council at the next meeting. It was thought for a while by the councilmen that the railroad company had been instrumental in having the request made of council, but it is now stated that the local people petitioned council without so much as seeing any of the railroad officials.

The new storage plant will be of much benefit to the city and as the promoters will not erect it if the ordinance is not passed, council will undoubtedly act at once.

WM. STILWELL UNDER ARREST

Wanted at Lisbon For Contempt of Court and Now In Jail at Wheeling.

MAY BE BROUGHT TO OHIO

William Stilwell, wanted at Lisbon for contempt of court, has been arrested after eluding the officers for at least six months. He is now in the Wheeling jail, having been arrested in Alley C, of that city, on Wednesday night. The charge against him is that he is a suspicious person.

Stilwell is very well known in this city. No one can remember of ever seeing him do any work, though always having energy for playing ball. It will be recalled that he left the city when the Davis shooting case was on at Lisbon. He did not want to testify against Davis and when he was arrested as a witness he grasped the first opportunity to escape. He made his escape from Chief Wyman. The chief had him in charge at the city hall, and not suspecting the kind of a character he really was, allowed him to go to a telephone.

The chief turned his back while Stilwell was talking and the latter shot out of the door and ran like a scared hound up Third street. The chief followed, but could not keep pace with the nimble young fellow, and he got away and out of the city.

Since disappearing he has been in the city and one evening under disguise walked under the very noses of several officers. His nerve is unlimited and he has always been quite successful in getting out of bad scrapes.

The Wheeling authorities will hold him until word is received from Lisbon. It is likely that a court officer will be sent after him.

LIVELY TIMES IN POLICE COURT

An Arrest For Embellishment and Other Small Sensations.

TWO CHARGED WITH THEFT

Business in police circles has been more lively during the past few days than for months. The cells at the city jail are kept filled daily and the mayor finds it hard to dispose of the numerous cases before him.

Charged with embezzling $65 from a man at Toronto, Albert Featheringham was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Auderheide. Chief Wyman received a telephone message to arrest the man and detailing Officer Auderheide to look him up, had the fellow in jail in less than an hour. Officer Dawson took him to Toronto last evening.

After turning over Featheringham to the Toronto authorities, Officer Dawson continued on down the river to Wheeling where he arrested George McAvoy for the purpose of having him appear as a witness in the case of Nell Jones, who is charged with luring Sarah Turner away from her home. Officer Dawson also stopped at Stenbenville and got a man by the name of Murphy, who will testify in the case. When the Jones case came up for hearing last evening a number of witnesses were examined, but the case was continued until the return of McAvoy and Murphy. Attorney Frank Grosshans represented the defendant and Attorney Davidson the plaintiff. Lenton McDevitt was arrested as a sort of an accomplice in the case, but the charge against him is that of unlawfully living with the Jones girl.

John Bradley was arrested by Officer McDermott on a charge of stealing empty barrels from the Hall China company. He pleaded guilty to the charge this morning, but the mayor did not sentence him. He stole six barrels and sold them for about 20 cents each. Duff Call was arrested for stealing iron and brass. He pleaded not guilty and will have a hearing some time this evening.

Officer Dunn left this morning for Steubenville, accompanied by Miss Sarah Turner, who will identify Homer Murphy as one of the men who was with her and Nell Jones.

MRS. ALICE EVANS APPEARS WHOLLY HEART BROKEN

Hangs About the House Where Her Child Is, Hoping for a Glimpse of It.

SHE TELLS THE MAYOR A PITIFUL STORY

Desiring to see and caress her child, all on earth that she has to live for, Mrs. Alice Evans appeared at the city hall last evening and implored Mayor Weaver to compel those who have the little one in charge to allow her the privilege of being with it, if for only a few minutes. The mayor was undecided at the time what to do, but will likely try to arrange matters so the poor woman can see her offspring.

Mrs. Evans is heart-broken. Her husband deserted her more than a year ago and since that time has not provided one cent for her. Shortly after his disappearance the woman became ill and was compelled to go to the county infirmary, where she gave birth to a child. She already had two children and the authorities realizing that she could not keep the little ones, provided homes for them. The youngest was admitted to a children's home at Cleveland, another at the Fairmount home and the other at the home of its grandparents in this city.

Since provision was made for the children, Mrs. Evans went to a pottery town in Pennsylvania and worked day and night to get a little money ahead. She was successful and upon reaching the city a couple of days ago was well dressed and had some money besides. She went to the home of her mother-in-law and asked that she might see her child, but says she was turned away. For two days she has been lurking around in the vicinity of the home trying to get just a glimpse of the child, but has not succeeded and her appeal to the mayor for assistance was made as a last resort.

The woman is a subject of pity. According to her story she has been continuously sinned against for two years, the relatives of her husband joining in with him to make her suffer.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY BALL OF THE HOLLENDEN CLUB

The Event of Last Evening at Rock Springs a Most Enjoyable and Brilliant Affair.

The members of the Hollenden club won for themselves new laurels in the social realms of this city, when they elaborately entertained their friends last evening at a St. Patrick's Day dance, given at Rock Springs park. The event was attended by 158 couples including many out-of-town guests. The young men had been for some time preparing for this function, which came off last evening under the most favorable circumstances, and superb appointments.

The decorations were exceedingly beautiful, the club colors, lavender and white were used in artistic designs. These colors were quite evident in the arrangement of the balconies of the pavilion. A large dome in the center of the pavilion with the letter "H" made of miniature electric lights, formed an attractive feature of the decorations. Five large Japanese lanterns were hung on each side of the pavilion. Large letters, "H" and "C" in electric lights and the colors lavender and white were suspended from the center of the platform.

Three calcium lights threw different colored lights on the dancers, which along with the many and beautiful colors of the ladies' costumes made a veritable kaleidoscope of color. Two anchors with red and blue lights hung at the entrance to the floor. Small pennants in club colors hung from the balcony, streamers from all directions converged from the center of the dome. A large heart covered with lights in lavender and white made a pretty effect in one end of the room.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the beautiful grand march began, led by Mr. George Rigby, president of the club, and Miss Fannie Roe, and pretty embossed programs were given out. The music was fine, and was furnished by McGraw's full orchestra. After a most delightful evening the guests were conveyed in special cars to this city, at 1 o'clock. The event is one which will long be remembered by the coterie of society people in this city. The out-of-town guests were: Misses McCouland, Esther Brown, Toronto; Emmet Leffer, M. O. Smith, Steubenville; E. J. Stamper, Will Mayhew, Charles Davis, Frank Pratt, Louis May, Miss Birdie Blount, Ethel Bradshaw, Helen Edgar, Ida Johnston, Blanche Frederick, Georgie Dalrymple, Jack Wilson, Olive Bome, all of New Brighton; Frank Leidendorfer, Harry Swaney, Beaver Falls; W. H. Armstrong, Wheeling; Frank Wagner, Canton; Frank McHenry, Pittsburg; Lillian Feyler, Rochester.

Missionary Society Sale.

The missionary society of St. Stephen's Episcopal church will hold a cake and pie sale at the store of George Mayhew, Fourth street, tomorrow afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock.

The move was determined upon so quickly that at the time the squirrels were purchased no arrangements had been made for their reception or accommodation at the park. The management decided a few days ago to locate the den on the site of the old electrical fountain, along the main walk, just south of the entrance. The carpenters are at work today building the mammoth cage, which will be of wood frame and with screen covering. Inside the cage will be built enclosed coops and the patrons of the park will be treated to exhibitions daily.

DR. PRATT IS ILL AND HIS WIFE ALSO

HE IS IN A SANITARIUM AND SHE IS SICK AT HOME.

She is Now Improved, Otherwise the Husband Would Have Been Summoned Home.

Separated by almost half the continent serious illness has overtaken Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt, of the First Methodist church, who is now at Portland, Me., and his wife, who is at the parsonage on Jackson street. Mrs. Pratt has been very seriously sick and is under the care of physicians and a trained nurse. It was thought yesterday it would be advisable to apprise Rev. Dr. Pratt of her condition and have him return to the city in case he is able to stand the trip, but today Mrs. Pratt is so much better the plan has been altered.

While Rev. Dr. Pratt was in Washington attending the meeting of the National Educational Congress physicians advised him to enter a sanitarium where he could have complete rest and medical treatment. This advice was almost a command, and Dr. Pratt secured the consent of the physicians to go to Portland, Me., the home of his father. He is visiting his father and taking treatment at a sanitarium there. Dr. Pratt, it is said, has been in a serious condition from nervous exhaustion, caused by over work at the recent revival meetings and has not improved as his friends hoped.

A DEN OF SQUIRRELS

Will Be Among the New Attractions at Rock Springs Park This Year.

Manager J. H. Maxwell is preparing to introduce a new feature at Rock Springs during the coming summer, and within a few days will have installed a huge den of the finest squirrels ever seen in this vicinity.

Manager Maxwell hit up the idea some time ago, and determined to put the plan into execution at once. Finding a place where the cute little creatures could be bought, arrangements were made for the purchase of more than a score of the little animals. They arrived in the city yesterday and are being cared for by parties who know the business thoroughly.

The move was determined upon so quickly that at the time the squirrels were purchased no arrangements had been made for their reception or accommodation at the park. The management decided a few days ago to locate the den on the site of the old electrical fountain, along the main walk, just south of the entrance. INHERITANCE TAX WILL SWELL REVENUES

Governor's Bill When Passed Will Bring In $300,000 to $400,000 Annually.

Columbus, March 18.—(Special).—Representative Crist will in a few days introduce in the house, Governor Herrick's inheritance bill, the features of which have already been described. The contents of the measure have practically been agreed upon by the state officials, and will include all inheritances, to remedy the defects in the inheritance bill passed two years ago, which was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court.

The per cent of taxation will not exceed two per cent, which it is believed, will increase the revenues of the state between $300,000 and $400,000 annually.

LIVELY TIMES IN POLICE COURT

An Arrest For Embellishment and Other Small Sensations.

TWO CHARGED WITH THEFT

Business in police circles has been more lively during the past few days than for months. The cells at the city jail are kept filled daily and the mayor finds it hard to dispose of the numerous cases before him.

Charged with embezzling $65 from a man at Toronto, Albert Featheringham was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Aufderheide. Chief Wyman received a telephone message to arrest the man and detailing Officer Aufderheide to look him up, had the fellow in jail in less than an hour. Officer Dawson took him to Toronto last evening.

After turning over Featheringham to the Toronto authorities, Officer Dawson continued on down the river to Wheeling where he arrested George McAvoy for the purpose of having him appear as a witness in the case of Neil Jones, who is charged with luring Sarah Turner away from her home. Officer Dawson also stopped at Steubenville and got a man by the name of Murphy, who will testify in the case. When the Jones case came up for hearing last evening a number of witnesses were examined, but the case was continued until the return of McAvoy and Murphy. Attorney Frank Grosshans represented the defendant and Attorney Davidson the plaintiff. Lenton McDevitt was arrested as a sort of an accomplice in the case, but the charge against him is that of unlawfully living with the Jones girl.

John Bradley was arrested by Officer McDermott on a charge of stealing empty barrels from the Hall China company. He pleaded guilty to the charge this morning, but the mayor did not sentence him. He stole six barrels and sold them for about 20 cents each. Duff Call was arrested for stealing iron and brass. He pleaded not guilty and will have a hearing some time this evening.

Officer Dunn left this morning for Steubenville, accompanied by Miss Sarah Turner, who will identify Homer Murphy as one of the men who was with her and Neil Jones.

Petition in Partition Filed.

Lisbon, March 18.—(Special).—Samuel M. Russell has filed a petition in partition against James E. Russell, James McBane and William and Elizabeth S. McFarland, asking that his five-eighths interest in 230.5 acres in St. Clair township be set off to him. The petition says the defendant, James D. Russell, is the owner of the remaining three-eighths interest in these tracts and asks that the remaining defendants be required to set up their alleged interests, William and Eliza S. McFarland claiming an interest adverse to the remaining parties to the suit.

Suffers From Blood Poisoning.

Lisbon, March 18.—(Special).—W. A. Lyder, a well known stock dealer at Signal, is recovering from an attack of blood poisoning contracted in dressing a wound on a horse, which had received a kick while in transit from Buffalo, N. Y.

MRS. ALICE EVANS APPEARS WHOLLY HEART BROKEN

Hangs About the House Where Her Child Is, Hoping for a Glimpse of It.

SHE TELLS THE MAYOR A PITIFUL STORY

Desiring to see and caress her child, all on earth that she has to live for, Mrs. Alice Evans appeared at the city hall last evening and implored Mayor Weaver to compel those who have the little one in charge to allow her the privilege of being with it, if for only a few minutes. The mayor was undecided at the time what to do, but will likely try to arrange matters so the poor woman can see her offspring.

Mrs. Evans is heart-broken. Her husband deserted her more than a year ago and since that time has not provided one cent for her. Shortly after his disappearance the woman became ill and was compelled to go to the county infirmary, where she gave birth to a child. She already had two children and the authorities realizing that she could not keep the little ones, provided homes for them. The youngest was admitted to a children's home at Cleveland, another at the Fairmount.

home and the other at the home of its grandparents in this city.

Since provision was made for the children, Mrs. Evans went to a pottery town in Pennsylvania and worked day and night to get a little money ahead. She was successful and upon reaching the city a couple of days ago was well dressed and had some money besides. She went to the home of her mother-in-law and asked that she might see her child, but says she was turned away. For two days she has been lurking around in the vicinity of the home trying to get just a glimpse of the child, but has not succeeded and her appeal to the mayor for assistance was made as a last resort.

The woman is a subject of pity. According to her story she has been continuously sinned against for two years, the relatives of her husband joining in with him to make her suffer.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY BALL OF THE HOLLENDEN CLUB

The Event of Last Evening at Rock Springs a Most Enjoyable and Brilliant Affair.

The members of the Hollenden club won for themselves new laurels in the social realms of this city, when they elaborately entertained their friends last evening at a St. Patrick's Day dance, given at Rock Springs park.

The event was attended by 158 couples including many out-of-town guests. The young men had been for some time preparing for this function, which came off last evening under the most favorable circumstances, and superb appointments.

The decorations were exceedingly beautiful, the club colors, lavender and white were used in artistic designs. These colors were quite evident in the arrangement of the balconies of the pavilion.

A large dome in the center of the pavilion with the letter "H" made of miniature electric lights, formed an attractive feature of the decorations.

Five large Japanese lanterns were hung on each side of the pavilion. Large letters, "H" and "C" in electric lights and the colors lavender and white were suspended from the center of the platform.

Three calcium lights threw different colored lights on the dancers, which along with the many and beautiful colors of the ladies' costumes made a veritable kaleidoscope of color. Two anchors with red and blue lights hung at the entrance to the floor. Small pennants in club colors hung from the balcony, streamers from all directions converged from the center of the dome. A large heart covered with lights in lavender and white made a pretty effect in one end of the room.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the beautiful grand march began, led by Mr. George Rigby, president of the club, and Miss Fornie Roe, and pretty embossed programs were given out. The music was fine, and was furnished by McGraw's full orchestra.

After a most delightful evening, the guests were conveyed in special cars to this city, at 1 o'clock. The event is one which will long be remembered by the coterie of society people in this city. The out-of-town guests were: Misses McCousland, Esther Brown, Toronto; Emmet Leffler, M. O. Smith, Steubenville; E. J. Stamper, Will Mayhew, Charles Davis, Frank Pratt, Louis May, Miss Birdie Blount, Ethel Bradshaw, Helen Edgar, Ida Johnston, Blanche Frederick, George Dalrymple, Jack Wilson, Olive Bome, all of New Brighton; Frank Leidendorfer, Harry Swaney, Beaver Falls; W. H. Armstrong, Wheeling; Frank Wagner, Canton; Frank McHenry, Pittsburg; Lillian Feyler, Rochester.

The missionary society of St. Stephen's Episcopal church will hold a cake and pie sale at the store of George Mayhew, Fourth street, tomorrow afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock.

DR. PRATT IS ILL AND HIS WIFE ALSO

HE IS IN A SANITARIUM AND SHE IS SICK AT HOME.

She is Now Improved, Otherwise the Husband Would Have Been Summoned Home.

Separated by almost half the continent serious illness has overtaken Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt, of the First Methodist church, who is now at Portland, Me., and his wife, who is at the parsonage on Jackson street. Mrs. Pratt has been very seriously sick and is under the care of physicians and a trained nurse. It was thought yesterday it would be advisable to apprise Rev. Dr. Pratt of her condition and have him return to the city in case he is able to stand the trip, but today Mrs. Pratt is so much better the plan has been altered.

While Rev. Dr. Pratt was in Washington attending the meeting of the National Educational Congress physicians advised him to enter a sanitarium where he could have complete rest and medical treatment. This advice was almost a command, and Dr. Pratt secured the consent of the physicians to go to Portland, Me., the home of his father. He is visiting his father and taking treatment at a sanitarium there. Dr. Pratt, it is said, has been in a serious condition from nervous exhaustion, caused by over work at the recent revival meetings and has not improved as his friends hoped.

A DEN OF SQUIRRELS

Will Be Among the New Attractions at Rock Springs Park This Year.

Manager J. H. Maxwell is preparing to introduce a new feature at Rock Springs during the coming summer, and within a few days will have installed a huge den of the finest squirrels ever seen in this vicinity.

Manager Maxwell hit up the idea some time ago, and determined to put the plan into execution at once. Finding a place where the cute little creatures could be bought, arrangements were made for the purchase of more than a score of the little animals. They arrived in the city yesterday and are being cared for by parties who know the business thoroughly.

The move was determined upon so quickly that at the time the squirrels were purchased no arrangements had been made for their reception or accommodation at the park. The management decided a few days ago to locate the den on the site of the old electrical fountain, along the main walk, just south of the entrance. The carpenters are at work today building the mammoth cage, which will be of wood frame and with screen covering. Inside the cage will be built enclosed coops and the patrons of the park will be treated to exhibitions daily.

OHIO VALLEY ROUND TABLE

Spring Session Will Be Held at Moundsville in April and a Big Meeting is Expected.

The spring session of the Ohio Valley Round Table will be held at Moundsville, W. Va., in April and arrangements for it are now under way. Prof. W. M. Henderson, superintendent of the Moundsville schools, is chairman of the committee in charge and he has issued the following announcements:

"The Ohio Valley Round Table of teachers, principals and superintendents will hold its spring session April 8 and 9, 1934. Kindly send topics for discussion to the undersigned not later than March 20. Come prepared to take part in the discussions. Programs will be mailed about March 25."

The Round Table was organized in 1887 by Prof. W. H. Henderson, former superintendent of the Wheeling schools, and Superintendents Jones, of Bellaire, and H. N. Mertz, formerly of Steubenville. The interest in the sessions grows with each year and large numbers of pedagogues attend. The organization includes teachers from most of the towns between East Liverpool and Parkersburg, and as far west as Zanesville.

Topics which have been previously sent in are discussed at the sessions and much practical benefit is derived by the teacher. Ideas are interchanging that are often of vast help in teaching. It is also customary to have some prominent man to lecture to the

The Wheeling board of education will likely declare a half holiday on the 8th of April, as it did at the last session, in order that the city corps of teachers may attend.

INSULTED THE CZAR.

Paderewski Exiled from Russia for Life by Police Order.

Vienna, March 18.—Paderewski, the pianist, lately performed at the Russian court. The czar was delighted and told the performer that he was especially pleased to find such talent in a Russian.

"I beg your majesty's pardon," replied Paderewski, "I am a Pole."

The same day Paderewski, who had arranged a number of concerts in St. Petersburg, received a notice from the police directing him to leave the capital in 24 hours and never return.

Among the Potteries and Allied Industries

CHELSEA MAY BE REBUILT.

It is said that after the insurance adjusters have completed their work it is more than probable that the Chelsea pottery will be rebuilt, and on the same ground and foundation that it formerly occupied. The foundation of the plant has been but little damaged by the fire, and the engines, boilers and kilns are almost as good as formerly. It is now thought by the members of the board of trade and the interested capital that a plant can be rebuilt at a much less cost on the present site than by changing the location. After the meeting in Pittsburgh next Tuesday it is understood that an extra effort will be made to induce the principals in the pottery to act in co-operation with the business men of New Cumberland.

BENEFIT SOCIETY.

The operatives in the clay departments of the three Laughlin plants have started the movement talked of for some time to organize a mutual benefit society. There are a number of these organizations among the operatives of local plants and good results have been secured. The assessments are usually small and often the members are repaid all or part of what they have paid in at the end of the six months' term. It has been suggested that a dance be given to start the organization and this matter will be decided later.

WILL ELECT MONDAY.

No. 4 received three transfer cards at their last meeting and reinstated one. In the last month they have received by card nine new members and reinstated and initiated five. They decided to send their full number of delegates to the convention. The election will be Monday night. The nominations were left open, but there are a number of candidates in the field now and it does not make much difference which one of the candidates is elected because they are all good hard workers in the local.

WILL GO WEST.

Forrest Smith, a well known young potter, employed at a batler out at Laughlin No. 3, is working out his notice and will leave the trade to go to Oklahoma, where he will engage in other business. His mother lives there and she has written him to join her.

REYNOLDS WILL FARM.

Edward Reynolds, who has been a stickup at the Laughlin No. 3 plant for some time, has handed in his notice and will leave his position and the trade. He will take a farm near Parkersburg as soon as he can get away from the city.

MESSER LEAVES.

Will Messer, of Chester, a well known kilnman, employed in the glass end at the Union until the plant closed down, has gone to Canonsburg, where he will work at his trade. He has many friends in East Liverpool who will regret to hear of his departure.

SHOP CARD ADOPTED.

Local union No. 29, dishmakers, have adopted the shop card, and the system is to be placed in operation April 1. A committee has been appointed to visit the shops and interview the dishmakers and give notice of the new system.

POTTERY NOTES.

Many local potters observed St. Patrick's day as a holiday.

Elmer McDevitt has returned to Minerva after a brief visit here.

Earl Sweedner, of New Castle, has taken a position at the Peoria plant.

Foreman Hawkins, of the Barberton plant, was a visitor here Wednesday.

James Stewart, formerly of the kiln crew at the Union, is now working at Sebring.

Fearing a strike of the miners the Peoria pottery has secured enough fuel to run the plant for several months.

Elijah Eardley, who was boss of the biscuit crew at the Union, has taken a position as kilnman in one of the Sebring plants.

Local union No. 70, Minerva, has elected the following officers: John Cunningham, financial secretary; Clem Dales, trustee. F. L. Graham was selected delegate to the national convention and Thomas Boyd alternate.

The finishers have opened nominations and will send a full delegation to the national convention. After April 1 meetings will be held every two weeks instead of weekly as at present.

The Uniform Rank, Modern Woodmen of the World, have secured a beautiful lodge emblem worked in relief on velvet to be changed off in connection with the dance to be held at Rock Springs park on the night of April 14.

New Idea paper patterns for April are in now, the best patterns made and they cost 10c.

TRACK REPAIRS TO BE HASTENED

To Enable the Mines at Salineville to Resume at an Early Date.

Salineville, March 18.—(Special.)—It is currently reported that a large force of men will be put to work on the branch road leading to the mines in the West End soon, to make the repairs necessary to running the switch engine up to the mines. Already a small force is working, filling along the tracks where water washed the ballasting away. It is said that a force of over 100 men will be put to work the first of the week on the switch.

This is good news for the miners at the West End, who are compelled to lie idle because of the unsafe condition of tracks and absence of bridges. The three mines, Sterling, Kirk & Deveney and Strabley's cannot work until the railroad is repaired. Quite a large number of men are employed at these mines and without work it makes times dull.

It is said that the Sterling Mining company has presented the facts to the proper officials of the C. & P. and that they have issued hurry up orders to get the tracks in shape immediately.

About 20 foreigners who are employed at the Cedar Hill who voted Tuesday on the question of strike or no strike, were loyal to the union and out of about 20 votes cast against accepting the reduction the foreigners voted to strike and not accept any reduction.

Ancient Cooking School. We of the twentieth century are inclined to think of cooking schools as belonging exclusively to our day and generation. Therefore it may be news to many people that as long ago as the reign of good Queen Anne a Mr. Kiddee had a school of cookery in Queen street, Cheapside, and another in Holborn. Here is his advertisement—the original is on good paper, with a neatly engraved border:

To All Young Ladies: At Edward Kiddee's pastry school, at Little Lincoln's Inn Fields, are taught all kinds of pastry and cookery, Dutch hollow works and butter works on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, in the afternoon, and on the same days in the morning at his school in Norris street, St. James, Haymarket, and at his school at St. Martin's le Grand on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, in the afternoons.

What Dutch hollow works may be none of the cooking schools of today seems to know, but they sound good.

The Fierce Caterpillar.

A more harmless, inoffensive creature does not crawl than the common garden caterpillar, yet this small worm will put up an appearance so fierce upon occasion as to frighten its enemies away. Soft and pulpy, with no defensive or offensive weapons, this destroyer of cabbages and lettuces will bluff itself into a veritable armored cruiser and frighten many more formidable insects into ungovernable flight. Its method of procedure is like this: Immediately anything approaches, the slow moving, fat caterpillar raises its hairy body, wags a formidable looking head and looks the essence of strength and defiance, so much so that it requires a bird of a particularly valiant disposition to attack it.—Chicago Record-Herald.

WOULD BRING ON WAR.

Killilea Says American League May Adopt New Schedule.

Milwaukee, March 18.—Henry Killilea of this city, proprietor of the Boston American league baseball team, upholds the stand taken by President Johnson of the American league in the schedule controversy. He said:

"After the American league committee adopted and gave the public its proposed schedule, the National, without consultation, made certain changes, notably so as to the New York National opening in Brooklyn. Every lover of the national game would deplore a return of the conditions of the past two years but even peace is too dear at the price of broken promises and breaches of faith. I hope to see an entirely new schedule adopted by the American and if the National sees fit to treat that as cause for war, then let it come."

A BRILLIANT SEASON

OF GRAND OPERA

At the Nixon Theater in Pittsburg March 29 to April 2.

Every indication points to a brilliantly successful grand opera season at the Nixon, Pittsburg, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, March 29, with a masterful production of Wagner's great love-tragedy, "Tristan and Isolde." All the artists are in the best of form and eager for the warm approval of Pittsburg audiences. The repertoire could hardly be excelled. The initial performance will present Mme. Ternina, the world's greatest "Isolde," also that magnificent tenor, Herr Kraus, as "Tristan." The "Magic Flute" will be a distinct novelty, and one certain of the most dazzling impressions, particularly with such stars as Mmes. Sembrich, Galski, Seydard and Mr. Goritz, the fine comedian, "Carmen," with the great Calve, of course, is certain to attract an overflowing audience. The two performances of Saturday, April 2, "Goetterdaemmerung" and "Faust," give promise even this early of taxing the Nixon to its utmost capacity.

The careful observer will not fail to note that the Conried company is uniformly excellent, as no grand opera company ever before has been. It offers Ternina, Kraus, Van Rooy, Sembrich, Galski, Goritz, Dippel, Calve, Burgstaller, Scotti, Plancon, Homer, Blass and Ackte, an aggregation of principals whose merits are simply unsurpassable.

On Monday, March 21, the sale of single seats will begin at C. C. Melior's, 319 Fifth avenue, Pittsburg, and the management wishes it understood that the number of choice, available sittings will be a large one.

Interest in the two "Damrosch" lectures is tremendous. These will be given at the Nixon on Monday, March 21, and Tuesday, March 22, at 4 p. m. Prices are attractively popular, 35, 50 and 75 cents, with box seats at $1.

You need a tonic, tissue builder, strength producer, flesh creator, this spring? Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will revitalize your entire system. 35 cents, tea or tablets. C. F. Craig.

ISLAND RUN COAL AT POWER HOUSE

New Company on Little Beaver Creek Will Supply Street Railroad With Fuel.

Coal from the mines of the Island Run company on Little Beaver creek will be transported directly to the boiler rooms at the street railway power house as soon as a switch can be built from the street car tracks to the north side of the power house. Coal has been used for fuel there for several weeks, but it was dumped along the outside of the building and wheeled in barrows. Work on the switch has been commenced and will go forward with all possible despatch.

James Madden, a well known Wells-ville electrician, has taken a position at the mines and will have charge of the electrical department. A steam shovel will be secured to keep the track up Little Beaver free from obstructions. Recently there have been a number of landslides along the line.

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Thomas Marran Has Purchased the Business of George Peach & Son and Has Taken Possession.

One of the most important deals in several weeks was consummated today when the old established and well known firm of George Peach & Son disposed of its entire business to Thomas Marran.

George Peach & Son was one of the oldest and most substantial concerns in the city. For years a well regulated jobbing business has been carried on, the firm handling cigars, tobacco, teas, coffees, and confectionery. The entire establishment with the good will and flourishing business has been turned over to Mr. Marran who will occupy the same rooms and run the business upon much the same plan as that of the old firm. Peach & Son's trade was substantial and well taken care of, and in retiring the former management commends the new proprietor to the friends of the firm with the assurance that they will be as well and faithfully served as in the past.

Mr. Marran is by no means new to the business, and has had experience enough to conduct the new establishment in a manner that will be in every way satisfactory to the large and constantly growing patronage of this popular house.

St. Stephen's Church Benefit.
 Rev. Edwin Weary, rector of St.
 Stephen's Episcopal church, has completed arrangements for the presentation of one of the finest operas ever seen in this vicinity. It will be given at the Rock Springs theater on May 10, 11 and 12. It will be styled
 "Egyptia," and will be a story of the Nile. A chorus of 400 will take part and they will be under the tutelage of C. G. Chenery. The scenery and electrical display will be much out of the ordinary. The affair will be given for the benefit of the new building fund of the church.

"Kith" and "Kin."
 "Kith and kin" has become a phrase vaguely applied to express relationship, but "kith" has nothing to do with kinship. "Kith" means "kint folk." It comes from "ken," which is the same as our word "can"—to know. When one can do a thing, one knows how to do it. Evidently our ancestors believed that knowledge is power. The old word for known was "kyth," as the old word for unknown was "un-kyth," or "uncouth." "Uncouth"—strange, unfamiliar, unusual, unknown—has preserved much of its early meaning in Scotland.
 Burns uses "uncos" in the sense of news. The "unco guld" are the strangely, marvelously good. "Kith," then, meant "kint folk," people with whom one was familiar. The "kint folk" are the folk we love, and love and familiarity developed out of the word "kith," the curious vocable "kythle," which in course of time underwent considerable phonetic and orthographic changes, but which is still recognizable in the word "cuddle."—Good Words.

A Vegetable Clock.

One of the most curious plants known is the clock plant, which is a native of Borneo, and even in that country it is said to be rare. The plant derives its name from its peculiar habits, which are known to but few who have not studied the plant from a scientific standpoint. The plant has leaves of two sizes, one of which acts in the capacity of a minute hand, which keeps moving until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and the other keeps going until morning. The larger leaves act as the hour hands. Starting in a position when all the leaves lie close to the stem, with the points hanging down, they rise gradually until they turn toward the top, and then they drop to their former position. It takes the smaller leaves about one minute to go through this performance and the longer leaves just about an hour.

A Chapel in a Coal Mine.

One of the most remarkable places of worship in the world is the miners' chapel in Myndd Menigdd colliery, Swansea, Wales, where for more than fifty years the workers have each morning assembled for worship. This sanctuary is situated close to the bottom of the shaft. The only light is that obtained from a solitary Davy safety lamp hung over the pulpit from the ceiling, and the oldest miner in the colliery is generally chosen to officiate.
 It is the custom in some other places for coal miners to gather together mealtimes for prayer meeting and the like, but it is said that this is the only instance where a special apartment is fitted out in a coal mine as a chapel.

How "Abide With Me" Was Written.

At the age of fifty-four Lyte found himself doomed to die of consumption, and in sorrow at having to leave his task unfinished he prayed that at the least it might be granted to him to write something which would live to the glory of God when he was dead.

 Then on the last evening he ever spent at Brixham, after preaching his farewell sermon, he took pen and as the sun was setting over the ships that lay in the harbor "Abide With Me" was written. Next morning he started for the Riviera and there died a month later.—London Telegraph.

Quality Is the Thing!

Most drug stores spend their efforts in putting down prices. They go so far as to lose sight of quality entirely for mere low-price effect.

We have a reputation that is based on high quality and sterling worth in every drug, medicine and drug store article sold. We won't sacrifice it. We won't try to meet competition on unworthy goods, but we will positively guarantee to each and every purchaser that he is getting "The best for the least."

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Thomas Marran Has Purchased the Business of George Peach & Son and Has Taken Possession.

One of the most important deals in several weeks was consummated today when the old established and well known firm of George Peach & Son disposed of its entire business to Thomas Marran.

George Peach & Son was one of the oldest and most substantial concerns in the city. For years a well regulated jobbing business has been carried on, the firm handling cigars, tobacco, teas, coffees, and confectionery. The entire establishment with the good will and flourishing business has been turned over to Mr. Marran who will occupy the same rooms and run the business upon much the same plan as that of the old firm. Peach & Son's trade was substantial and well taken care of, and in retiring the former management commends the new proprietor to the friends of the firm with the assurance that they will be as well and faithfully served as in the past.

Mr. Marran is by no means new to the business, and has had experience enough to conduct the new establishment in a manner that will be in every way satisfactory to the large and constantly growing patronage of this popular house.

St. Stephen's Church Benefit.
Rev. Edwin Weary, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, has completed arrangements for the presentation of one of the finest operas ever seen in this vicinity. It will be given at the Rock Springs theater on May 10, 11 and 12. It will be styled "Egyptia," and will be a story of the Nile. A chorus of 400 will take part and they will be under the tutelage of C. G. Chenery. The scenery and electrical display will be much out of the ordinary. The affair will be given for the benefit of the new building fund of the church.

"Kith" and "Kin."

"Kith and kin" has become a phrase vaguely applied to express relationship, but "kith" has nothing to do with kinship. "Kith" means "kent folk." It comes from "ken," which is the same as our word "can"—to know. When one can do a thing, one knows how to do it. Evidently our ancestors believed that knowledge is power. The old word for known was "kyth," as the old word for unknown was "unkyth," or "uncouth." "Uncouth"—strange, unfamiliar, unusual, unknown—has preserved much of its early meaning in Scotland. Burns uses "uncos" in the sense of news. The "uncos" are the strange, marvelously good. "Kith," then, meant "kent folk," people with whom one was familiar. The "kent folk" are the folk we love, and love and familiarity developed out of the word "kith" the curious vocable "kithly," which in course of time underwent considerable phonetic and orthographic changes, but which is still recognizable in the word "cuddle."—Good Words.

A Vegetable Clock.

One of the most curious plants known is the clock plant, which is a native of Borneo, and even in that country it is said to be rare. The plant derives its name from its peculiar habits, which are known to but few who have not studied the plant from a scientific standpoint. The plant has leaves of two sizes, one of which acts in the capacity of a minute hand, which keeps moving until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and the other keeps going until morning. The larger leaves act as the hour hands. Starting in a position when all the leaves lie close to the stem, with the points hanging down, they rise gradually until they turn toward the top, and then they drop to their former position. It takes the smaller leaves about one minute to go through this performance and the larger leaves just about an hour.

A Chapel in a Coal Mine.

One of the most remarkable places of worship in the world is the miners' chapel in Myndd Menigdd colliery, Swansea, Wales, where for more than fifty years the workers have each morning assembled for worship. This sanctuary is situated close to the bottom of the shaft. The only light is that obtained from a solitary Davy safety lamp hung over the pulpit from the ceiling, and the oldest miner in the colliery is generally chosen to officiate. It is the custom in some other places for coal miners to gather together mealtimes for prayer meeting and the like, but it is said that this is the only instance where a special apartment is fitted out in a coal mine as a chapel.

How "Abide With Me" Was Written.

At the age of fifty-four Lyte found himself doomed to die of consumption, and in sorrow at having to leave his task unfinished he prayed that at the least it might be granted to him to write something which would live to the glory of God when he was dead. Then on the last evening he ever spent at Brixham, after preaching his farewell sermon, he took pen and as the sun was setting over the ships that lay in the harbor "Abide With Me" was written. Next morning he started for the Riviera and there died a month later.—London Telegraph.

CRUBAUGH RECEIVED LEASE

Asked For Proposition "Because He
Was Not Fully Advised"—List of
Improvements That Were Asked,
and Agreed to By Council.

The fact that the postal department does not propose to wait much longer to have the city complete its part of the contract, in making certain improvements in the room in the city building now occupied by the postoffice department, created no end of comment in Wellsville last night. Additional official information is presented by this paper, which proves that the city is at fault, if the postoffice is permitted to move to the Whitacre building.

The letter which President of Council Crubaugh sent to the department as king for a copy of its proposition seems to have been misunderstood, or else President Crubaugh failed to ask for that for which he most desired. However, the postoffice department sent the gentleman just what he asked for, and the proposition follows:

February 19, 1903.

To the Postmaster General, Washington, D. C.

City of Wellsville, Ohio, hereby agrees to lease for use of the postoffice at Wellsville, Ohio, the room 17 feet, 10 inches in front by 55 feet, nine inches (inside measurements) on the ground floor, including janitor service of the three story brick premises, known as City Hall Building, situated on the east side of Main street, between Fifth street and Sixth street, in Wellsville, Ohio, for a term of ten years from April 1, 1903, at the annual rental of seven hundred ($700) dollars, payable quarterly, and subject to the provisions and requirements of the form of lease used by the postoffice department.

It further agrees to furnish said described room with boxes and drawers of a modern pattern in sufficient number, together with all the necessary fixtures and furniture (the furniture and fixtures as specified by Assistant Superintendent Norris), including free delivery furniture when necessary— requisite to place said room in a condition in every way satisfactory for use as a postoffice, and to keep said room, boxes, fixtures and furniture (including said free delivery furniture) in good repair and in proper condition to the satisfaction of the postoffice department, and to furnish all additional boxes, fixtures and furniture (including free delivery furniture) that may be deemed necessary during the term for which hereinbefore described may be leased.

It further agrees to include the furnishing of a satisfactory heat, light, water, fire and burglar proof safe or vault, and necessary closets and urinals, and will keep said vault, the heating and lighting fixtures, and the plumbing in good repair and good condition during the term of the lease. It will have the room ready for occupancy by the postoffice department 30 days after the receipt of the notice of acceptance of this proposition, by the postoffice department.

THE CITY OF WELLSVILLE,
By Wallace L. Fogo, Mayor,
J. W. McQueen, City Clerk.

This proposition is nothing more than a lease on the postoffice room, signed while the old council was in office. This will be seen by the date of the lease. It can also be seen that the city by accepting the proposition agreed to abide by the terms of the document, for there is therein included a notation regarding the improvements specified to the department and city officials by Assistant Superintendent Norris, of the salary and allowance department.

As the matter now stands, the board of service has no funds to complete any work or improvements in the postoffice room. Council has been asked for funds for this purpose, but has failed to release any money for that purpose.

Councilman Blissett, at a recent meeting, favored the ousting of the postoffice department from the building, but no action was taken upon his suggestion.

Just what the city agreed to place in the postoffice under this new lease, and which was specified in the document, is as follows:

Safe—height 70½ inches, width 41½ inches, depth 31 inches; chest—height 15 inches, width 27 inches, depth 14½ inches; two hundred forty-four call boxes; six hundred and twenty-four lock boxes—six hundred small, twenty-four drawers, city to supply 141 small lock boxes ("A" grade); one roll top desk five feet wide; one flat top desk with drawers (double desk); three revolving chairs, one large two small; three cane seated chairs; carriers' desks; carriers' distributing case; one mailing case; one bag rack; one revolving general delivery case; letters and papers or in screen; one dumping table, one stamping table combined; one cabinet filing case for blank forms, one letter press stand; one slip case—pigeon holes for blank slips; one case for paid and unpaid money order advices; table and chairs for carriers' room; one bulletin board for lobby—five feet square; one sign for office, gilt letters on windows; one wardrobe and four lockers; wardrobe for carriers and lockers; two supply closets eight feet long, eight feet high, eighteen inches deep; two wall desks in lobby; one clock; one water cooler and stand; heat and light; toilet rooms; awning in front room; quartered oak partition, postmasters room, bars on rear windows.

When these improvements were decided upon by Inspector Norris, three copies were made, two of which were presented to the board of service, and another to Postmaster T. R. Snowden. The original is on file with the department at Washington.

When this matter was brought up at a recent council meeting there was some hunting around for a copy of the paper which was in the hands of the board of service. One copy was evidently lost, but at last another copy was produced.

In the original document, all furniture and fixtures relating to a carrier department was marked off by the officials of the department. The uncompleted part of the proposition accepted by the city consists of the postmaster's room, lavatory, bag rack, awning, and letter press stand.

It was also the intention of the government to have new boxes placed in the office, but there is no room for any more. The east side of the office will have to be remodeled, and that part of the office where the stamp window is located will be changed.

President of Council Crubaugh said today that he wrote the government for the proposition for his own use, and that he received it too late to be read at the last meeting of council. He claims that he was not fully advised about the situation.

The board of service, it is claimed, never had sufficient money to complete the agreements, which some say should and could have been completed long before the board of service commenced its existence. All the proposed improvements were authorized by the old council and they were to be completed within 30 days after the lease was signed. Had this part of the agreement been executed, it would be just one year tomorrow when the city would have commenced to receive an increased rental.

It is firmly believed by some that free delivery in Wellsville has been delayed by the action of the city. The government went so far as to purchase a vault at its own expense, thus saving the city a big item of expense. All that has been asked, is just what is required by the department for every second class postoffice in the country. Wellsville is being treated just like other cities of the same class.

CLAIMS GIRLS TOOK MONEY FROM FRIEND

Charles Brock, Released From Jail,
Says Women Arrested By Police
Secured Funds.

Charles Brock, colored, who was arrested in company with Carrie Scott and Rosie Richardson, colored girls from Steubenville, Tuesday night, was released from custody by Mayor Fogo yesterday. There was no charge upon which the authorities could hold him.

The two colored girls after they came to East Liverpool left for Steubenville. They told Mayor Fogo that Steubenville was where they proposed to go.

It is claimed one of the girls got some money from one of the men they were with that night, but when the girls were before Mayor Fogo they denied taking money from any one Tuesday evening. The story told by Brock after his release brought out this fact.

Brock went to East Liverpool yesterday afternoon and told his story to several people who accompanied him. He claimed there were some things connected with his recent arrest that have not been told, and that under the circumstances he had no cause for being detained by the police.

Contractor Harrison S. Rinehart has commenced grading for the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad company for the purpose of extending the yards at Eighteenth street. About 100 men are employed and about 25 teams. The excavating is being done south of the railroad and on the east side of Eighteenth street. The earth is being removed to the west side of Eighteenth street, where a big fill is being made. Additional tracks will be laid when this excavating is completed, all of which will cause the yards to have an increased car capacity. When the new yards are finished in the West End, the Wellsville yards will be the most extensive along the river division.

BUILDS FREIGHT CAR

United Power Company Will Place
New Car in Operation Within the Next Thirty Days.

A new freight car is being made by the United Power company at its power house. It will replace the one now in use between East Liverpool and Wellsville. The car will be about the size of the double trucked green cars, but it will have but one truck under it.

Experienced street railway men say that the car will not answer the purpose, as so long a car on one pair of trucks will cause it to be in the barn being repaired more than it is in operation. The new equipment is expected to be placed in commission within 30 days.

SEEK CLEAN OFFICES

Telephone Managers Say Rooms Occupied in City Hall Not Kept as
They Should Be.

Managers of the telephone offices at Wellsville will ask the council soon to clean the windows in their rooms. Those employed in the exchanges claim the windows have not been cleaned for months, and the floors of the offices only occasionally.

The blinds in the room occupied by the Columbiana Telephone company are almost worthless, but the board of service has no funds with which new blinds could be purchased. The managers claim that the rooms under the lease are to be kept clean, but some days this is not the case.

Five Pass Operators' Exams.

Six young men took the telegraphers' examination under the direction of Division Operator J. G. Moore, of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh road, at the Wellsville station yesterday. All save one passed and he will be given another chance. "Two of those who took the examination were from Wellsville and passed with high percentages. Others who were there were from McGarries, Malvern and New Philadelphia.

STREET IS PASSABLE

Report of a Committee Appointed to Examine Nineteenth
Street.

Nineteenth street is in a passable condition, according to the decision of a committee appointed by council Tuesday night to inspect that street. The committee was composed of City Engineer Harry H. Leith, Solicitor Boyd and Mayor Fogo.

When the railroad company began to fill in for the new yards, west of Eighteenth street, some dirt was dumped on Nineteenth street. There were no fences or other marks there to show that the street existed, and the drivers of dump wagons let three loads down in the street. The committee failed to see where any damage resulted to the street because of the small amount of filling, but told the railroad company to refrain from dumping there, until the streets were declared vacated by council.

An Enjoyable Concert.

The literary society of the A. M. E. church gave a concert last evening in the church which was attended by several hundred people. About $25 was realized, which will be given to the regular church fund. Miss Upshaw, Alice Payne, Ella Payne, Edward Smith and Will Payne composed a chorus. A duet was rendered in a pleasing manner. Miss L. V. Upshaw sang a solo. Miss Alice Payne gave a recitation. P. E. Spires spoke upon "Race Pride." He talked about half an hour. Miss Ella Payne spoke of local situations, after which refreshments were served.

One Bid Has Been Filed.

One bid was filed with the water works trustees up to noon today for the completion of the new pumping station. This was from the Three "C" Construction company, of Pittsburgh. This with any other bids that may be filed, will be opened at a special meeting of water works trustees tomorrow noon. It is expected that six or more bids will be opened by the trustees. The majority of these, it is thought, will be filed with the constructing engineers at Pittsburgh.

No Money Available.

All men who have been employed by the city in cleaning and repairing streets because of the recent floods have been laid off. There is no money available for an extension of this work, although it is conceded that much work on the streets remains to be done. CRUBAUGH RECEIVED LEASE

Asked For Proposition "Because He Was Not Fully Advised"—List of
Improvements That Were Asked,
and Agreed to By Council.

The fact that the postal department does not propose to wait much longer to have the city complete its part of the contract, in making certain improvements in the room in the city building now occupied by the postoffice department, created no end of comment in Wellsville last night. Additional official information is presented by this paper, which proves that the city is at fault, if the postoffice is permitted to move to the Whitacre building.

The letter which President of Council Crubaugh sent to the department as king for a copy of its proposition seems to have been misunderstood, or else President Crubaugh failed to ask for that for which he most desired. However, the postoffice department sent the gentleman just what he asked for, and the proposition follows:

February 19, 1903.

To the Postmaster General, Washington, D. C.

City of Wellsville, Ohio, hereby agrees to lease for use of the postoffice at Wellsville, Ohio, the room 17 feet, 10 inches in front by 55 feet, nine inches (inside measurements) on the ground floor, including janitor service of the three story brick premises, known as City Hall Building, situated on the east side of Main street, between Fifth street and Sixth street, in Wellsville, Ohio, for a term of ten years from April 1, 1903, at the annual rental of seven hundred ($700) dollars, payable quarterly, and subject to the provisions and requirements of the form of lease used by the postoffice department.

It further agrees to furnish said described room with boxes and drawers of a modern pattern in sufficient number, together with all the necessary fixtures and furniture (the furniture and fixtures as specified by Assistant Superintendent Norris), including free delivery furniture when necessary—requisite to place said room in a condition in every way satisfactory for use as a postoffice, and to keep said room, boxes, fixtures and furniture (including said free delivery furniture) in good repair and in proper condition to the satisfaction of the postoffice department, and to furnish all additional boxes, fixtures and furniture (including free delivery furniture) that may be deemed necessary during the term for which hereinbefore described may be leased.

It further agrees to include the furnishing of a satisfactory heat, light, water, fire and burglar proof safe or vault, and necessary closets and urinals, and will keep said vault, and the heating and lighting fixtures, and the plumbing in good repair and good condition during the term of the lease. It will have the room ready for occupancy by the postoffice department 30 days after the receipt of the notice of acceptance of this proposition, by the postoffice department.

THE CITY OF WELLSVILLE,
By Wallace L. Fogo, Mayor,
J. W. McQueen, City Clerk.

This proposition is nothing more than a lease on the postoffice room, signed while the old council was in office. This will be seen by the date of the lease. It can also be seen that the city by accepting the proposition agreed to abide by the terms of the document, for there is therein included a notation regarding the improvements specified to the department and city officials by Assistant Superintendent Norris, of the salary and allowance department.

As the matter now stands, the board of service has no funds to complete any work or improvements in the postoffice room. Council has been asked for funds for this purpose, but has failed to release any money for that purpose.

Councilman Bissett, at a recent meeting, favored the ousting of the postoffice department from the building, but no action was taken upon his suggestion.

Just what the city agreed to place in the postoffice under this new lease, and which was specified in the document, is as follows:

Safe—height 70 1/2 inches, width 41 1/2 inches, depth 31 inches; chest—height 15 inches, width 27 inches, depth 14 1/2 inches; two hundred forty-four call boxes; six hundred and twenty-four lock boxes—six hundred small, twenty-four drawers, city to supply 141 small lock boxes ("A" grade); one roll top desk five feet wide; one flat top desk with drawers (double desk); three revolving chairs, one large two small; three cane seated chairs; carriers' desks; carriers' distributing case; one mailing case; one bag rack; one revolving general delivery case; letters and papers or in screen; one dumping table, one stamping table combined; one cabinet filing case for blank forms, one letter press stand; one slip case—pigeon holes for blank slips; one case for paid and unpaid money order advices; table and chairs for carriers' room; one bulletin board for lobby—five feet square; one sign for office, gilt letters on windows; one wardrobe and four lockers; wardrobe for carriers and lockers; two supply closets eight feet long, eight feet high, eighteen inches deep; two wall desks in lobby; one clock; one water cooler and stand; heat and light; toilet rooms; awning in front room; quartered oak partition, postmasters room, bars on rear windows.

When these improvements were decided upon by Inspector Norris, three copies were made, two of which were presented to the board of service, and another to Postmaster T. R. Snowden. The original is on file with the department at Washington.

When this matter was brought up at a recent council meeting there was some hunting around for a copy of the paper which was in the hands of the board of service. One copy was evidently lost, but at last another copy was produced.

In the original document, all furniture and fixtures relating to a carrier department was marked off by the officials of the department. The uncompleted part of the proposition accepted by the city consists of the postmaster's room, lavatory, bag rack, awning, and letter press stand.

It was also the intention of the government to have new boxes placed in the office, but there is no room for any more. The east side of the office will have to be remodeled, and that part of the office where the stamp window is located will be changed.

President of Council Crubaugh said today that he wrote the government for the proposition for his own use, and that he received it too late to be read at the last meeting of council. He claims that he was not fully advised about the situation.

The board of service, it is claimed, never had sufficient money to complete the agreements, which some say should and could have been completed long before the board of service commenced its existence. All the proposed improvements were authorized by the old council and they were to be completed within 30 days after the lease was signed. Had this part of the agreement been executed, it would be just one year tomorrow when the city would have commenced to receive an increased rental.

It is firmly believed by some that free delivery in Wellsville has been delayed by the action of the city. The government went so far as to purchase a vault at its own expense, thus saving the city a big item of expense. All that has been asked, is just what is required by the department for every second class postoffice in the country. Wellsville is being treated just like other cities of the same class.

CLAIMS GIRLS TOOK MONEY FROM FRIEND

Charles Brock, Released From Jail,
Says Women Arrested By Police
Secured Funds.

Charles Brock, colored, who was arrested in company with Carrie Scott and Rosie Richardson, colored girls from Steubenville, Tuesday night, was released from custody by Mayor Fogo yesterday. There was no charge upon which the authorities could hold him.

The two colored girls after they came to East Liverpool left for Steubenville. They told Mayor Fogo that Steubenville was where they proposed to go.

It is claimed one of the girls got some money from one of the men they were with that night, but when the girls were before Mayor Fogo they denied taking money from any one Tuesday evening. The story told by Brock after his release brought out this fact.

Brock went to East Liverpool yesterday afternoon and told his story to several people who accompanied him. He claimed there were some things connected with his recent arrest that have not been told, and that under the circumstances he had no cause for being detained by the police.

Contractor Harrison S. Rinehart has commenced grading for the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad company for the purpose of extending the yards at Eighteenth street. About 100 men are employed and about 25 teams. The excavating is being done south of the railroad and on the east side of Eighteenth street. The earth is being removed to the west side of Eighteenth street, where a big fill is being made.

Additional tracks will be laid when this excavating is completed, all of which will cause the yards to have an increased car capacity. When the new yards are finished in the West End, the Wellsville yards will be the most extensive along the river division.

BUILDS FREIGHT CAR

United Power Company Will Place
New Car in Operation Within
the Next Thirty Days.

A new freight car is being made by the United Power company at its power house. It will replace the one now in use between East Liverpool and Wellsville. The car will be about the size of the double trucked green cars, but it will have but one truck under it.

Experienced street railway men say that the car will not answer the purpose, as so long a car on one pair of trucks will cause it to be in the barn being repaired more than it is in operation. The new equipment is expected to be placed in commission within 30 days.

SEEK CLEAN OFFICES

Telephone Managers Say Rooms Occupied in City Hall Not Kept as
They Should Be.

Managers of the telephone offices at Wellsville will ask the council soon to clean the windows in their rooms. Those employed in the exchanges claim the windows have not been cleaned for months, and the floors of the offices only occasionally.

The blinds in the room occupied by the Columbiana Telephone company are almost worthless, but the board of service has no funds with which new blinds could be purchased. The managers claim that the rooms under the lease are to be kept clean, but some days this is not the case.

Five Pass Operators' Exams.

Six young men took the telegraphers' examination under the direction of Division Operator J. G. Moore, of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh road, at the Wellsville station yesterday. All save one passed and he will be given another chance. Two of those who took the examination were from Wellsville and passed with high percentages. Others who were there were from McGarries, Malvern and New Philadelphia.

STREET IS PASSABLE

Report of a Committee Appointed to Examine Nineteenth
Street.

Nineteenth street is in a passable condition, according to the decision of a committee appointed by council Tuesday night to inspect that street. The committee was composed of City Engineer Harry H. Leith, Solicitor Boyd and Mayor Fogo.

When the railroad company began to fill in for the new yards, west of Eighteenth street, some dirt was dumped on Nineteenth street. There were no fences or other marks there to show that the street existed, and the drivers of dump wagons let three loads down in the street. The committee failed to see where any damage resulted to the street because of the small amount of filling, but told the railroad company to refrain from dumping there, until the streets were declared vacated by council.

SIMPLE WAY TO GAIN WEIGHT

"Mi-o-na, the Flesh Forming Food, Gives Remarkable Results," Says Druggist Reed.

Mi-o-na makes thin people fat. It gives a perfect digestion and cures all stomach troubles.

The scrawny, emaciated person always has more or less trouble from indigestion. Mi-o-na will overcome all the ills afflicting the poor, weak, thin dyspeptics. It makes them plump and gives health and strength. It strengthens the digestive organs and restores health so that the daily food is readily assimilated and makes solid bone and firm muscle, rich blood and healthy flesh.

In East Liverpool there are many people who have proven in their own case the remarkable flesh forming qualities of Mi-o-na. It can be used by the most delicate. It contains no alcohol and is not a cod liver oil preparation. It comes in small tablets, costing 50c a box, and if you take one tablet before eating, you can enjoy a hearty meal and feel that health and good flesh will quickly and surely return.

Will Reed will give a written guarantee with every box of Mi-o-na he sells to refund the money if it does not do all that is claimed for it. You certainly can afford to commence using Mi-o-na with the understanding that it costs nothing unless you are cured.

RAILROAD STOCK IS MADE DOUBLE

C. & P. Directors Vote to Make Capital $22,000,000, Half For Improvements.

THE DOUBLE TRACK WORK

Is Being Pushed And Will Be Completed During the Present Year. Other Big Improvements on the Pennsylvania Lines West.

At a special meeting of the directors of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad company in New York yesterday, it was voted to increase the stock of the company from $11,000,000 to $22,000,000 to pay for the large improvements under way between Rochester, Pa., and Cleveland, and between Bellaire and Yellow Creek, O. The stock is to be taken by the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which has had the Cleveland & Pittsburgh road in lease and an interest in the stock for some years.

The action taken by the directors of the company yesterday, if approved by the stockholders, places the control of the C. & P. with the Pennsylvania. John P. Green, a Pennsylvania railroad director and officer, has been in the directorate of the C. & P. It is highly probable that, following the action of yesterday, the Pennsylvania railroad will have more men in the C. & P. directorate after the annual election in May.

Yesterday's meeting was held in the banking offices of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh road's transfer agents, Winslow, Lanier & Co., and was attended by Harry Darlington, of Pittsburgh, and R. E. Smith, H. C. Ranney, E. R. Perkins, W. R. Warner and Andrew Squire, of Cleveland. The late Senator Hanna was a director.

It was stated officially that in all likelihood the Cleveland & Pittsburgh's immense improvements will be completed this season. There still remains considerable double tracking on the line between Rochester and Cleveland, but this work will be pushed rapidly forward as soon as the weather is settled. The road has just completed its double track line from the city limits of Cleveland to the union station, which improvement will ease traffic and obviate delays and inconveniences that have existed.

A new freight house in Davenport street, Cleveland, will be opened in a few weeks. This is the first radical departure from the "flats," the section of Cleveland in which nearly all of the large freight houses are located. One of the features of the C. & P. improvements, particularly on the southern end, is the elimination of bridges. Four of these structures will be displaced by stone and concrete culverts in the four miles of road between Yellow Creek and Irondele. This has been a troublesome section in flood times.

The double tracking of the Pittsburgh Ft. Wayne & Chicago road on the Western division, was continued until the cold and snowy weather was so severe that the work could not be carried forward, except at a loss. This project lacks only about 10 miles of completion and this 10 miles is subdivided into small stretches, where the track is to be connected up. This work is between Ft. Wayne and Waukegan, on the Chicago end of the division. It is expected that the work of construction will be resumed about April 1. About this time the Erie & Pittsburgh division double tracking and other improvement work will be put under way again.

The Pennsylvania lines west officials are also paying close attention to the improvements on the Southwest system, particularly just now in getting the track and bridges in shape for handling a heavy traffic to the world's fair. A large force of men is located at Xenia, east from which place about three miles of second track is being built. The Cincinnati division has double track road from Columbus to Alton, a distance of 10 miles, and grading is under way for 13½ miles southwest from Xenia. On the route through Dayton and Richmond the track is being improved and the bridges are being strengthened so as to permit the use of the big Atlantic passenger engines.

With the 27 miles of double track road from Cincinnati to Foster and the new second track noted above, this division will, before the end of this year, have at least 53 miles of double track line. Heavy improvements have also been made on the Indianapolis division in the matter of second main track, passing sidings and new bridges or the strengthening of old ones. Altogether the Pennsylvania lines west have as much new work under way in 1904 as was completed in 1903.

REALM OF SPORTS

BICYCLES FOR 1904

Many New Models Go to Show That the Sport is Not Defunct.

New things in 1904 bicycles made their appearance at the bicycle show in Madison Square Garden, New York, and the changes in construction and new conveniences prove that bicycle builders are continuing to improve their product.

Not the least important of the new things is the cushion front fork that reduces the jar on the handle bar. The cushion frame seems to grow in popularity and with the cushion fork and pneumatic tires, cycling over the roughest roads is like riding in a high-price carriage. The speed gear is fitted on chainless wheels.

Almost all the machines of 1904 will be fitted with coaster brakes. The usual diamond frame is retained for the new models and the drop frame for women's machines. The weight in bicycles has been considerably reduced by the abolishment of barrel hubs and the increased use of the D-shaped tubing. Although there are good bicycles retailing as low as $25, a good demand was shown at the bicycle exhibition for the $100 machines with all their modern fittings and finishes. The show in New York was the first complete bicycle show held since 1900.

SIMPLE WAY TO GAIN WEIGHT

"Mi-na, the Flesh Forming Food, Gives Remarkable Results," Says Druggist Reed.

Mi-na makes thin people fat. It gives a perfect digestion and cures all stomach troubles.

The scrawny, emaciated person at ways has more or less trouble from indigestion. Mi-na will overcome all the ills afflicting the poor, weak, thin dyspeptics. It makes them plump and gives health and strength. It strengthens the digestive organs and restores health so that the daily food is readily assimilated and makes solid bone and firm muscle, rich blood and healthy flesh.

In East Liverpool there are many people who have proven in their own case the remarkable flesh forming qualities of Mi-na. It can be used by the most delicate. It contains no alcohol and is not a cod liver oil preparation. It comes in small tablets, costing 50c a box, and if you take one tablet before eating, you can enjoy a hearty meal and feel that health and good flesh will quickly and surely return.

Will Reed will give a written guarantee with every box of Mi-na he sells to refund the money if it does not do all that is claimed for it. You certainly can afford to commence using Mi-na with the understanding that it costs nothing unless you are cured.

RAILROAD STOCK IS MADE DOUBLE

C. & P. Directors Vote to Make Capital $22,000,000, Half For Improvements.

THE DOUBLE TRACK WORK

Is Being Pushed And Will Be Completed During the Present Year. Other Big Improvements on the Pennsylvania Lines West.

At a special meeting of the directors of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad company in New York yesterday, it was voted to increase the stock of the company from $11,000,000 to $22,000,000 to pay for the large improvements under way between Rochester, Pa., and Cleveland, and between Bellaire and Yellow Creek, O. The stock is to be taken by the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which has had the Cleveland & Pittsburgh road in lease and an interest in the stock for some years.

The action taken by the directors of the company yesterday, if approved by the stockholders, places the control of the C. & P. with the Pennsylvania. John P. Green, a Pennsylvania railroad director and officer, has been in the directorate of the C. & P. It is highly probable that, following the action of yesterday, the Pennsylvania railroad will have more men in the C. & P. directorate after the annual election in May.

Yesterday's meeting was held in the banking offices of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh road's transfer agents, Winslow, Lanier & Co., and was attended by Harry Darlington, of Pittsburgh, and R. F. Smith, H. C. Ranney, E. R. Perkins, W. R. Warner and Andrew Squire, of Cleveland. The late Senator Hanna was a director.

It was stated officially that in all likelihood the Cleveland & Pittsburgh's immense improvements will be completed this season. There still remains considerable double tracking on the line between Rochester and Cleveland, but this work will be pushed rapidly forward as soon as the weather is settled. The road has just completed its double track line from the city limits of Cleveland to the union station, which improvement will ease traffic and obviate delays and inconveniences that have existed.

A new freight house in Davenport street, Cleveland, will be opened in a few weeks. This is the first radical departure from the "flats," the section of Cleveland in which nearly all of the large freight houses are located. One of the features of the C. & P. improvements, particularly on the southern end, is the elimination of bridges. Four of these structures will be displaced by stone and concrete culverts in the four miles of road between Yellow Creek and Ironside. This has been a troublesome section in flood times.

The double tracking of the Pittsburgh Ft. Wayne & Chicago road on the Western division, was continued until the cold and snowy weather was so severe that the work could not be carried forward, except at a loss. This project lacks only about 10 miles of completion and this 10 miles is subdivided into small stretches, where the track is to be connected up. This work is between Ft. Wayne and Wapakoneta, on the Chicago end of the division. It is expected that the work of construction will be resumed about April 1. About this time the Erie & Pittsburgh division double tracking and other improvement work will be put under way again.

The Pennsylvania lines west officials are also paying close attention to the improvements on the Southwest system, particularly just now in getting the track and bridges in shape for handling a heavy traffic to the world's fair. A large force of men is located at Xenia, east from which place about three miles of second track is being built. The Cincinnati division has double track road from Columbus to Alton, a distance of 10 miles, and grading is under way for 13½ miles southwest from Xenia. On the route through Dayton and Richmond the track is being improved and the bridges are being strengthened so as to permit the use of the big Atlantic passenger engines. With the 27 miles of double track road from Cincinnati to Foster and the new second track noted above, this division will, before the end of this year, have at least 53 miles of double track line. Heavy improvements have also been made on the Indianapolis division in the matter of second main track, passing sidings and new bridges or the strengthening of old ones. Altogether the Pennsylvania lines west have as much new work under way in 1904 as was completed in 1903.

REALM OF SPORTS

BICYCLES FOR 1904

Many New Models Go to Show That the Sport is Not Defunct.

New things in 1904 bicycles made their appearance at the bicycle show in Madison Square Garden, New York, and the changes in construction and new conveniences prove that bicycle builders are continuing to improve their product.

Not the least important of the new things is the cushion front fork that reduces the jar on the handle bar. The cushion frame seems to grow in popularity and with the cushion fork and pneumatic tires, cycling over the roughest roads is like riding in a high-price carriage. The speed gear is fitted on chainless wheels.

Almost all the machines of 1904 will be fitted with coaster brakes. The usual diamond frame is retained for the new models and the drop frame for women's machines. The weight in bicycles has been considerably reduced by the abolishment of barrel hubs and the increased use of the D-shaped tubing. Although there are good bicycles retailing as low as $25, a good demand was shown at the bicycle exhibition for the $100 machines with all their modern fittings and finishes. The show in New York was the first complete bicycle show held since 1900.

Five star players of the Wheeling team have so far refused to sign as the salaries are not satisfactory. They are First Baseman Jim Fox, Shortstop Jimmy McCombs, Third Baseman Deiders and Pitchers "Dummy" Rossen and John Fox. Left Fielder Eugene Curtis, who was purchased by Pittsburgh last fall for $1,500, will play with Wheeling again.

Kouropatkin Will Have Headquarters at Liao Yang Instead of Mukden.

WILL LIVE ON SPECIAL TRAIN

Russian General in Chief Making Quick Journey to Front—Expects to Reach There March 26—Little News Gets Past Censors.

St. Petersburg, March 18.—The first headquarters of the Manchurian army after General Kouropatkin's arrival will be at Liao Yang, the general having selected that point instead of Mukden. Liao Yang is 10 miles west of the railroad, connected with the main road by a special line which will be completed by the time General Kouropatkin arrives, and has many advantages over Mukden, being a point whence both the telegraph line and the Pekin road go to the Yalu river. Another road, not marked on the maps, leads almost due east to an extinct volcano, Paik-Tou-San, or Long White mountain, whose crater is a sacred lake. The road was built by the Chinese whose emperors formerly went there to shoot tigers, with which the region is infested.

Two rivers, the Tumen and the Yalu, rise near the mountain. Liao Yang consequently commands both the roads over which troops will be sent according to necessity. Liao Yang also has the advantage of being nearer the frontier of China in the event of punitive measures being required against the Chinese. It is also close to the Liao Tung peninsula, New Chwang and the mouth of the Liao Ho.

While the Russians are mobilizing for the purpose of working out an offensive military problem they will be prepared to move heavy forces in any direction to meet the Japanese, whose command of the sea gives them great freedom in selecting their points of attack. General Kouropatkin will live on a train and be prepared to move immediately wherever his presence is required.

Guarding Against Surprise.
The Japanese have always shown a preference for night attacks and most rigorous orders have been issued to keep up a continuous advance of scouting parties and to have heavy pickets out at night. General Kouropatkin is now near Omsk, Siberia. He is making very fast time, averaging over 532 miles per day, everything being side-tracked to get him to Mukden on March 26, the only stops, except to change engines, being occasionally to inspect passing troop trains.

The charges against the Japanese of violating the rules of civilized warfare in using explosives forbidden by the Hague convention find no echo in responsible circles here. The Japanese are acquitted on that score by a high naval officer who holds a very responsible position and who says: "The accusation is based on a misconception. They are employing the same explosives as other armies and navies. It is notorious that the bursting of a mine shell between decks generates fumes from which the men are liable to asphyxiation, but the Russian shell is no better and no worse than that used by the Japanese. The wife of Grand Duke Constantine is preparing 17,000 Easter eggs in order to provide each sailor in the Far East with a souvenir. Each egg will contain a portrait of the emperor, a book, soap and towel, a tobacco pouch, note paper, etc., wrapped in a handkerchief bearing pictures of Peter the Great's boat and of Russian naval victories."

Strengthening Weak Points.
New Chwang, March 18.—General Lenievitch, accompanied by General Konratonavitch, after a survey of New Chwang and its defenses, returned to his command at Liao Yang. He also visited Kai Chou and points affecting the protection of the general coast and the holding of the weak zone along the main line of railway opposite New Chwang. Although they are disclaiming any apprehension of the Japanese landing here, the authorities are satisfied to have foreigners understand that the Russians are prepared for any local emergency and the arrival of an additional battery of artillery and also 150 scouts is significant of coming events.

It is apparent that both civil and military strategists and the diplomats at Mukden apprehend a collision with the Chinese, probably fearing that the increased number of their small bands of scouts operating between the Liao river and the great wall are the surest instruments for their enlargement in a conflict, particularly as this zone is in the nature of a no-man's-land on account of having been abandoned by the powers and also because the Chinese jurisdiction is incompetent. Russians able to judge profess to regard General Ma's attitude as dangerous to the peace of Russia and China.

Chefoo, March 18.—While entering Port Arthur the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Skorri struck upon an unplaced mine and was blown up. Four of the crew were saved.

Seoul, Korea, March 18.—Marquis Ito has arrived at Chemulpo. He was greeted by a delegation of high Korean officials. When his special train arrived at Seoul it was received with military honors. A Korean guard of honor saluted and surrounded the handsome green palanquin in which

Mr. Burgstaller will enact the role of Stegried in "Die Goettersdaemung" during Pittsburgh's coming season of grand opera. These booklets are circulated gratuitously and will be highly appreciated by all who intend witnessing the performances.

A visitor was carried to the mansion prepared for him by the emperor. Marquis Ito will be received by the Korean emperor on Saturday.

Washington, March 18.—A cablegram received at the Japanese legation from the Japanese consul at Shanghai says that the captain of a Norwegian vessel which has arrived there from Port Arthur reports that the Russian fleet left Port Arthur on the morning of March 12 but returned the same evening.

London, March 18.—A correspondent of the Times at Tokio says that the Russian and Japanese scouts are now separated only by the river Cheng Cheng, just north of Anfu. The dispatch adds that the foreign correspondents will leave for the front either on March 20 or March 23, but their destination is still unknown.

A correspondent of the Times at Wei-Hai-Wei, cabling under yesterday's date, says: "I arrived at Ping Yang inlet March 15 and proceeded to Chinampo. Navigation was difficult owing to the drift of ice. I found anchored there both war vessels and transports. Disembarkation has been difficult, but the Japanese have brought all necessary appliances. Pontoon jetties have been built and extend for hundreds of yards, and the transports brought their own landing barges."

More Details of Murder of Dr. Labaree in Persia.

Urumiyah, Persia, March 18.—An investigation of the death of the Rev. Dr. Benjamin Labaree, the American missionary, announced from here on March 11, shows that Dr. Labaree, whose son is superintendent of the American mission here, was returning from Kolia to Urumiyah on horseback, accompanied by a servant, and later both were found dead by the roadside.

Their bodies had been stripped and mutilated and had numerous stabs. The horses and effects of the travelers were missing. Dr. Labaree leaves a widow and four children. Steps have been taken to discover the assassins.

CONJURED UP CRIMES.

Carbarn Bandits Would Confess for a Chew of Tobacco.

Chicago, March 18.—The carbarn bandits, Marx, Niedermeyer and Vandine, have been placed in solitary confinement in the county jail. No one except their spiritual advisers will be allowed to see the prisoners. The reason, according to Jailer Whitman, is the fact that the trio had inaugurated a paying system of confessing for publication. "It had reached a point," said the jailer, "where they were willing to confess to the most heinous of crimes for a paltry chew of tobacco."

CHANGED HIS PLANS

Kouropatkin Will Have Headquarters at Liao Yang
Instead of Mukden.

WILL LIVE ON SPECIAL TRAIN

Russian General in Chief Making Quick Journey to Front—Expects to Reach There March 26—Little News
Gets Past Censors.

St. Petersburg, March 18.—The first headquarters of the Manchurian army after General Kouropatkin's arrival will be at Liao Yang, the general having selected that point instead of Mukden. Liao Yang is 10 miles west of the railroad, connected with the main road by a special line which will be completed by the time General Kouropatkin arrives, and has many advantages over Mukden, being a point whence both the telegraph line and the Pekin road go to the Yalu river. Another road, not marked on the maps, leads almost due east to an extinct volcano, Paik-Tou-San, or Long White mountain, whose crater is a sacred lake. The road was built by the Chinese whose emperors formerly went there to shoot tigers, with which the region is infested.

Two rivers, the Tumen and the Yalu, rise near the mountain. Liao Yang consequently commands both the roads over which troops will be sent according to necessity. Liao Yang also has the advantage of being nearer the frontier of China in the event of punitive measures being required against the Chinese. It is also close to the Liao Tung peninsula. New Chwang and the mouth of the Liao Ho.

While the Russians are mobilizing for the purpose of working out an offensive military problem they will be prepared to move heavy forces in any direction to meet the Japanese, whose command of the sea gives them great freedom in selecting their points of attack. General Kouropatkin will live on a train and be prepared to move immediately wherever his presence is required.

Guarding Against Surprise.
The Japanese have always shown a preference for night attacks and most rigorous orders have been issued to keep up a continuous advance of scouting parties and to have heavy pickets out at night. General Kouropatkin is now near Omsk, Siberia. He is making very fast time, averaging over 522 miles per day, everything being sidetracked to get him to Mukden on March 26, the only stops, except to change engines, being occasionally to inspect passing troop trains.

The charges against the Japanese of violating the rules of civilized warfare in using explosives forbidden by The Hague convention find no echo in responsible circles here. The Japanese are acquitted on that score by a high naval officer who holds a very responsible position and who says: "The accusation is based on a misconception. They are employing the same explosives as other armies and navies. It is notorious that the bursting of a mine shell between decks generates fumes from which the men are liable to asphyxiation, but the Russian shell is no better and no worse than that used by the Japanese. The wife of Grand Duke Constantine is preparing 17,000 Easter eggs in order to provide each sailor in the Far East with a souvenir. Each egg will contain a portrait of the emperor, a book, soap and towel, a tobacco pouch, note paper, etc., wrapped in a handkerchief bearing pictures of Peter the Great's boat and of Russian naval victories."

Strengthening Weak Points.
New Chwang, March 18.—General Lenievitch, accompanied by General Konratonavitch, after a survey of New Chwang and its defenses, returned to his command at Liao Yang. He also visited Kai Chou and points affecting the protection of the general coast and the holding of the weak zone along the main line of railway opposite New Chwang. Although they are disclaiming any apprehension of the Japanese landing here, the authorities are satisfied to have foreigners understand that the Russians are prepared for any local emergency and the arrival of an additional battery of artillery and also 150 scouts is significant of coming events.

It is apparent that both civil and military strategists and the diplomats at Mukden apprehend a collision with the Chinese, probably fearing that the increased number of their small bands of scouts operating between the Liao river and the great wall are the surest instruments for their enlargement in a conflict, particularly as this zone is in the nature of a no-man's-land on account of having been abandoned by the powers and also because the Chinese jurisdiction is incompetent. Russians able to judge profess to regard General Ma's attitude as dangerous to the peace of Russia and China.

Chefoo, March 18.—While entering Port Arthur the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Skorri struck upon an unplaced mine and was blown up. Four of the crew were saved.

Seoul, Korea, March 18.—Marquis Ito has arrived at Chemulpo. He was greeted by a delegation of high Korean officials. When his special train arrived at Seoul it was received with military honors. A Korean guard of honor saluted and surrounded the handsome green palanquin in which

CONJURED UP CRIMES.
Carbarn Bandits Would Confess for a Chew of Tobacco.
Chicago, March 18.—The carbarn bandits, Marx, Niedermeyer and Vandine, have been placed in solitary confinement in the county jail. No one except their spiritual advisers will be allowed to see the prisoners.
The reason, according to Jailer Whitman, is the fact that the trio had inaugurated a paying system of confessing for publication. "It had reached a point," said the jailer, "where they were willing to confess to the most heinous of crimes for a paltry chew of tobacco."

Urumiyah, Persia, March 15.—An investigation of the death of the Rev. Their bodies had been stripped and mutilated and had numerous stab wounds. The horses and effects of the travelers were missing. Dr. Labaree leaves a widow and four children. Steps have been taken to discover the assassins.

The "Weeping Willow" Song.
Some people have heard of the ballad containing the words "I'll hang my hair on a weeping willow tree," but perhaps it is not generally known that the author was a young man who fell desperately in love with Queen Victoria, at that time a girl of seventeen. This young lover was heir to a baronetcy, but baronets cannot approach royalty in the guise of a suitor, though it took some time before the romantic youth could be brought to understand this fact. When at last he did so, he sat down in despair and wrote the now well known ballad, which was at that time published in a London paper, and then he emigrated to Australia.

An Umbrella Trick.
"That's no way to put on an umbrella cover, my dear," remarked the man to his wife, who was preparing to go out one cloudy day.
"Don't fuss at it like that. No; you don't want to turn the cover right side out. Leave it as it is and put the ferrule of the umbrella through the little tin top, so. Now take hold of the top of the case and pull it right up over the umbrella, just as you stripped it off. See? It doesn't take half a minute and is much easier than laboriously turning the narrow case right side out."

Felt His Importance.
A boy, having left school, started to work in a factory. At the end of his first day's work he returned home, evidently feeling quite a man. Taking off his hat and coat, he threw them on the floor, with a meaning look at his sister.
"Look here, Jim," said she; "hang your clothes in their proper place."
"Hang them up yourself," he replied.

COUNCIL NOT SCARED BY THE PROTESTS

Likely to Go Ahead With the Construction of a New Jail for the Town.

Contrary to expectation the Chester council failed to become panicky at the presentation of the protest against the erection of a new jail building in that town when the petition was presented last night, and the profound sensation predicted failed to materialize. The bid of Finley Bros. of $1.185 was considered reasonable, and though no definite action was taken at the meeting last night it is probable the jail will be built.

A number of citizens were present at the meeting, and Mayor Mercer very considerably allowed all who desired to speak on the subject a hearing. The main objection to the proposed improvement came from those who thought the amount of money necessary to construct the new jail could be expended to better advantage in improving the condition of the city streets. No one denied that the present town building was in bad condition and unfit for use, but if there was to be an outlay made at this time all insisted that it be devoted to street improvements.

Councilman Anderson, who is the most enthusiastic supporter of the jail project, was not present at the meeting and action on the bid of Finley Bros. was deferred.

Another petition which had been largely signed came before the meeting last night. The petition asked that Third street be opened from a point at the intersection of Carolina avenue to connect with the county road at Middle run. The matter was placed in the hands of the street committee and the members will go over the ground and make a report to the council.

A satisfactory report was made by the light committee. The lights now in service were in good shape, and the members hoped the gas company would soon extend its mains so more lights could be added.

Solicitor Ingram, who has prepared the delinquent tax and street assessment books, turned them over to the council and showed a very unsatisfactory condition. It was brought out that the delinquent taxes had been carried over through the past three years.

The town sergeant reported the railroad tax for 1903 in his hands. It amounted to nearly $200. A batch of bills were read, but action upon them was deferred until the next meeting.

Several bad places in streets and a few on private property were reported to the council, and after the complaints had been referred to the proper committees, the meeting adjourned.

Hancock B. & L. Election.

The following officers were elected yesterday at a meeting of the stockholders of the Hancock County Building & Loan association: President, Hugh Newell; vice president, Charles A. Smith; secretary and treasurer, O. O. Allison. The office of secretary which was formerly held by S. T. Herbert and that of treasurer by N. O. Macrum, was made one and Mr. Allison chosen. The headquarters of the concern, which has been in East Liverpool, will be removed to the First National bank at Chester.

Elaborate Supper Served. The losing side in the money raising contest conducted by the ladies of the Chester U. P. church recently, paid the penalty last night when an elaborate supper was served at the church. The members of both parties enjoyed the spread, after which all adjourned to the pleasant home of Mrs. Mary McDonald, where the remainder of the evening was spent enjoyably.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Words cannot tell what I suffered before taking your medicine. I am 28 years old and the mother of four children, the last two being only 16 months apart. I was all run down, had fainting spells, palpitation of the heart, and was so bad with women's trouble that I could not be on my feet but a short time before I would have to lie down. My heart troubled me, would have spells of skipping beats and would flutter. I had such a feeling of dread and fear about me all the time I was afraid to go anywhere.

"I commenced taking your remedies as you advised me, and in one week I felt better than I had in a whole year before, and the gain was steady. Day by day the bad symptoms disappeared. My appetite returned and I was able to go to bed at night and sleep like a child. I will now take two bottles of your Vegetable Compound and seven of your Blood Purifier, and would say to all suffering women, do not stop at a few bottles, but keep on. In three months I was able to return home, and have since done the housework for a family of six. It does not seem possible that I am the same person that suffered so a year ago."—Mrs. T. J. HEARST'S BOOM INSPIRES FEAR

To Turn the Tide Ohio Democrats Move to Nominate Kilbourne.

THE CONSERVATIVE ONES

Say That He Is a Safe Man and Promise to Rally to His Support—The Colonel Readily Assents to the Proposition.

Columbus, March 18.—Prominent Columbus Democrats, with the encouragement of prominent Democrats from all sections of Ohio, have started a boom for Colonel James Kilbourne as Democratic candidate for president, in order to save Ohio Democrats from W. R. Hearst's presidential ambitions. Colonel Kilbourne approves of the boom and is an out-and-out candidate. The movement, which has the hearty support of the Democratic organization of Columbus and the Twelfth district, is expected to spread like wildfire, as the colonel has always been one of the most popular and conservative men of his party.

RIGHT HERE IN EAST LIVERPOOL

Will Reed Guarantees to Refund the Money if Hyomei Fails to Cure the Worst Case of Catarrh.

It is no uncommon thing to see a medicine advertised as a "guaranteed cure." But investigation usually shows that the guarantee is made by some unknown firm, hundreds of miles away. The guarantee, though, that comes with Hyomei, is entirely different. It is made by Will Reed, one of the most reliable druggists in this section. He advertises that if Hyomei does not cure the worst case of catarrh, he will return the money without any question or argument. No business house in East Liverpool has a better reputation for square dealing than Will Reed, and when he guarantees that he will refund the money if Hyomei fails to cure catarrh, no one has any question as to the agreement being lived up to, both in the spirit and letter.

Hyomei is very easy and pleasant to use. Just breathe it through the little inhaler that comes with every outfit; every breath will bring recovery so much the nearer. It kills all the germs of catarrhal troubles in the air passages of the head, throat and lungs, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane, and is the only natural cure for catarrh.

The complete outfit costs but one dollar, and extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for fifty cents. Do not let a slight catarrhal trouble develop into one that may be serious and chronic. Use Hyomei at once, remembering that you run no risk whatever when you try Hyomei on Will Reed's offer of "no cure, no pay."

His candidacy will be a godsend to the conservative Democrats of the state, who have viewed with alarm the inroads Hearst has been making in Ohio. While opposed to Hearst, they had no one to fly to for refuge, no one to rally around. Colonel Kilbourne's candidacy gives them this refuge and leader.

Colonel Kilbourne, when he ran for governor in 1891 against George K. Nash, received more votes than any other Democrat who sought gubernatorial honors. Kilbourne has always been a "regular." While he supported Bryan in his two candidacies for president, his conservatism since that last Bryan campaign has led him to disavow any further support of the Kansas City platform, whose issues he declares are dead.

It is predicted that all factions of the Democratic party of Ohio will quickly rally around Kilbourne except the Johnson and Lentz crowds—that is, Mayor Johnson and John J. Lentz, and their immediate followers.

A well known Democrat of state reputation back of the Kilbourne boom said last night that not much support was expected from Tom L. Johnson, as the latter himself was a presidential aspirant.

The following statement was issued by the Democrats who started the Kilbourne boom:

"The activity of the friends of William R. Hearst in the interest of his presidential candidacy, as shown at the first three district conventions in Ohio held for the selection of delegates to the national convention, has so aroused the conservative element of the party throughout the state that insistent and daily increasing requests are coming to leading Democrats of the Twelfth congressional district, urging the selection of Colonel James Kilbourne as a candidate for that high office. Acting in response to those requests, a number of active Democrats met at the Great Southern hotel and took the matter of the candidacy of Colonel Kilbourne under serious consideration. The fact was recalled that notwithstanding his effective support of the national Democratic tickets and platforms of 1896 and 1900 he retains the entire confidence of the conservative and business elements of his party and of the country.

"For these reasons it was determined to take immediate steps to secure the selection of delegates from the various districts favorable to his candidacy and urge upon all Democrats of Ohio to assist in sending delegates to the state convention who will support the appeal of the Democrats of the Twelfth district that the state convention further the candidacy of Colonel Kilbourne to the end that his name shall be presented to the national convention at St. Louis as the united choice of the Ohio Democracy for the nomination for president."

RELIGIOUS IDEAS OF THE JAPANESE

Buddhism Is the Principal Belief, Though There Is No State Religion.

PROGRESS OF CHRISTIANITY

Has Been Very Slow Among the People There—Russia Officially Is of the Greek Catholic Faith—Many Other Religions Flourish.

The world knows that the Japanese take their patriotism very earnestly, even solemnly. They are no strangers to deep and exalted sense of duty. But religion rests lightly on the pleasure-loving islanders.

The law makes no discrimination between sects or creeds. Buddhism was the state religion for more than 1,200 years before it was disestablished in 1871 and disendowed in 1874, but since the latter date no religion has been officially favored. Yet most of the people of Japan are still Buddhists. The system of morals and philosophy known as Shinto, "the way of the gods," has been practically absorbed in Buddhism, but it has also affected the latter faith very deeply.

There are about 191,960 temples and shrines in Japan which are called Shinto places of worship, but there are no priests and there is no Shinto creed, or even a strict code or moral conduct. The gods enumerated by masters of this colorless religion number nearly 14,000, but they have no images, and all that is done in recognition of their influence or authority is mild and easy. Prayers are said and some offerings are made, from time to time, in honor of the more noted gods, and there are decorous and quiet dances connected with the simple Shinto rites.

In its origin Shinto seems to have been a sort of ancestor worship, but the Buddhist leaders early convinced the Japanese that the worthies they venerated as Shinto gods were transmutations or manifestations of Buddha. Hence the two religions existed very harmoniously together, and the lines of separation became hard to locate precisely.

Buddhism entered Japan by way of Korea and China. It was introduced about 552 A. D. Then came gilded images, gorgeous temples, and an elaborate ritual, and the Japanese taste for art was gratified. But the Japanese tendency toward credence in matters of faith soon created many new sects of Buddhists, and now there are seventy or more. As a rule, Japanese Buddhists reject the idea of absorption into the eternal calm and nothingness of Nirvana. They cherish, rather, the idea of a paradise where the faithful can enjoy bliss for untold ages. Altogether, there are about 72,000 Buddhist temples and monasteries, with more than 115,000 priests and preachers. Christianity has made comparatively little progress in Japan. It has never been received with any such cordiality as that which has greeted many western institutions. There are some 45,000 Japanese Protestants, of various denominations, 55,000 Roman Catholics, and about 26,000 Greek Catholics. As for the effect of missionary leaders upon the upper classes, it seems to be chiefly a great increase of agnosticism.

REAR ADMIRAL WALKER, RETIRED, HEAD OF THE NEW PANAMA CANAL COMMISSION.

Rear Admiral John G. Walker, retired, head of the new Panama canal commission appointed by President Roosevelt to undertake the construction of the interoceanic waterway, is peculiarly fitted for the work for which he has been selected, for the reason that for the last seven years he has done little else than study the various problems connected with canal construction. Admiral Walker, while in the navy, was noted for his regard for the welfare of his men and for his disregard of precedent. He was appointed to the navy from Iowa in 1850.

Russia is officially of the Greek Catholic faith. There are many other religions largely represented in the empire, and the government does not interfere with any sect or class except the Jews and, to a less extent, the numerous dissenters from the Greek Catholic church who are neither Roman Catholics, Lutherans nor connected with any of the Protestant churches powerful in other parts of Europe. But the czar is also the head of the national church, and the connection between that great body and the state is very close. The emperor appoints all church officers of importance. He can also dismiss priests and prelates, under various circumstances.

The Greek church denies the authority of the pope of Rome. It authorizes all persons to read the scriptures in

BRISTOW TESTIFIES.

Declines to Connect President With Recent Postal Report.

Washington, March 18.—Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, in testifying before the house special committee on the postoffice report, claimed for himself responsibility for only the first seven pages of the report which was sent to the postoffice committee and said the other portions of the document were the work of other officials of the department.

The clerk hire section, he said, was prepared in the office of the first assistant postmaster general and that part relating to leases by inspectors and others in his own department.

Mr. Bristow's testimony threw considerable light on all phases of the inquiry. He practically cleared members of congress from wrongdoing touching the clerk hire section of the report by stating that it was the duty of the first assistant's office to ascertain the condition of the work in an office where an increase had been recommended.

Mr. Bartlett of the committee attempted to learn by questioning Mr. Bristow what part, if any, President Roosevelt had in the publication of the report. Mr. Bristow replied that he had no personal knowledge that the president had given it his approval.

JAI ALAI IN SENATE

Members Play Famous Game During Secret Session on Wood Case.

THEY FIND IT VERY EXCITING

Pleasant Diversion Seems to Have Created Sentiment Favorable to Promotion of Absent Soldier to Be Major General.

Washington, March 18.—With the paraphernalia for playing jai alai, a game which figures conspicuously in the contest against the confirmation of General Leonard Wood to be major general, the members of the United States senate amused themselves for more than an hour, protected from the gaze of the public by the closed doors of an executive session.

A lively interest was manifested in the game. It was stated by members of the committee that the game will be introduced at the St. Louis exposition. Senators Proctor, Cockrell, Quarles, Foraker, Teller, Scott, Pettus, Blackburn and others who participated in the hearings before the military affairs committee, where the game was explained by experts, were the exponents of jai alai. Senators Cockrell and Foraker, who have paid extensive visits to Cuba while the "pelota" season was at its height, explained that the gambling features of the game are not essential to its adoption by the Cubans, while Senators Blackburn, Scott and Teller contended that without the betting privileges the jai alai company would not have made application to General Wood for the concession to erect a building as headquarters for the game. The spectacle of senators clasping the basket racquets to their hands and gesticulating in their efforts to illustrate the manner of throwing the "pelota" ball in real play was so unusual that it came nearer holding a quorum than have any of the fiery speeches that have been made for or against General Wood's confirmation.

General Wood's defenders scored a point when Senator Patterson admitted that he had spent a day studying the testimony in regard to the game and had come to the conclusion that it contained nothing detrimental to General Wood's conduct and no reason for opposition to his confirmation. The senator said that he had expected to oppose confirmation on the strength of the testimony against General Wood, but that a more urgent reason than that must be advanced.

CIRCUIT COURT

Cases to Be Heard at the March Term at Lisbon Opening March 28.

Lisbon, March 18.—(Special.)—The following cases are on the bar list of

THE CAMPUS MARTIUS

Not the Classic Roman Field,
but a Famous Frontier Fort.

A NOBLE AND USEFUL CITADEL.

Contained Within Its Walls the Facilities For Offering a Stout Defense and Maintaining a Long Siege. Built by Earnest Pioneer Patriots Who Were Well Educated Men.

(Copyright, 1904, by American Press Association.)

One might imagine from reading the title of this sketch that it had to do with classical Rome, but the Campus Martius of which this is written was a stockaded fortress of great importance which was erected just after the settlement at the mouth of the Muskingum river. It was completed in 1791.

The following description of this ambitious pioneer work is gathered from an old volume written long, long ago: The walls formed a regular parallelogram, the sides of which were 180 feet each. At each corner was erected a strong blockhouse, surmounted by a tower and sentry box. These houses were twenty feet square below and twenty-four feet above and projected six feet beyond the curtains or walls of the fort. The intermediate curtains were built up with dwelling houses made of wood, whipsawed into timbers four inches thick and of the requisite width and length. These were laid up similar to the structure of log houses, with the ends nicely dovetailed to make a neat finish.

Bon Ami

Brightens all kinds of tinware, dippers, cans, pails, pans, etc.

For Rheumatism, Cold in Chest, Sore Muscles, Stiff Joints. USE FOUR-FOLD LINIMENT. "IN USE OVER FIFTY YEARS." AT ALL DRUGGISTS. 25c, 50c, $1.00.

The whole was two stories high and covered with good shingle roofs. Convenient chimneys were erected of bricks for cooking and for warming the rooms. A number of the dwelling houses were built and owned by private individuals who had families. In the west and south fronts were strong gateways, and over that one in the center of the front looking to the Muskingum river was a belfry. The chamber underneath was occupied by the Hon. Winthrop Sargent as an office, he being secretary to the governor of the newly created Northwest Territory, General Arthur St. Clair, and performing the duties of governor in his absence. This room projected over the gateway and was intended for the protection of the gate beneath in case of an assault. At the outer corner of each blockhouse was erected a bastion, standing on four stout timbers. Portholes were made for musketry as well as for artillery, a single piece of which was mounted in the southwest and northeast bastions. In these the sentries were regularly posted every night as being more convenient of access than the towers.

Running from corner to corner of the blockhouses was a row of palisades, sloping outward and resting on stout rails. Twenty feet in advance of these was a row of very strong and large pickets set upright in the earth. Gateways through these admitted the inmates of the garrison. A few feet beyond the outer palisades was placed a row of abatis, made from the tops and branches of trees, sharpened and pointing outward, so that it would have been difficult for an enemy to have penetrated even within the outer works of these Ohio pioneers. The dwelling houses occupied a space from fifteen to thirty feet each and were sufficient for the accommodation of forty or fifty families, and did actually contain from 200 to 300 persons, men, women and children, during the long Indian war which so soon followed the erection of this fortress in the wilderness.

Governor St. Clair used to occupy the southwest blockhouse, and the northwest one was used as a church and a courtroom. The area within the walls was 144 feet square and afforded a fine parade ground. In the center was a well eighty feet deep for the supply of water to the inhabitants in case of a siege. A large sundial stood for many years in the square, placed on a handsome post. For many years after the Campus Martius was only a memory this dial was preserved as a relic.

This somewhat detailed description is given because of the surpassing historical value of this famous old fortification. The brave hearted company of people who thus early left their comfortable eastern homes and set out into the wilderness to found a new empire were noble and famous men. They were highly educated and had classical tastes. When they reached their frontier home and made their clearings they constructed their fortress in the most highly approved style and gave to it a historic Latin name. To us of this now practical day all this sounds pedantic, but to the pioneers on the Muskingum

A DISASTROUS HORSE CHASE

Attempt to Regain Lost Animals Led to Captivity and Death.

For a long time the cloud of Indian depredation hung over the old West—moreland region of western Pennsylvania at the beginning of the Revolution. It hovered as if in uncertainty and then broke in a bloody and destructive storm which caused the loss of many lives and the desolation of many homes. Early in the year 1777 occurred the first notable raid in the region now covered by Indiana county, then called the Blacklick settlement. Hither came prowling bands of Indians led by white partisans, either English or French. In the upper part of the valley of the Kiskiminetus several outages occurred, a number of people being murdered. Word of the red storm passed quickly through the settlements, and the terrified inhabitants at once abandoned their homes and hastened to seek refuge in the two or three rude but safe frontier stockades which were within reach.

The adventures of one Randall Laughlin at this time furnish the material for this interesting story. Laughlin, with his family and neighbors, had sought refuge in Fort Wallace, driving some fine horses in with him. Shortly after reaching the fort the animals somehow managed to make their escape. Discovering their absence, Laughlin at once concluded that they had gone back to the home farm on the Blacklick, and he determined to risk the chances involved in going to bring them back. Making his purpose known, he was joined in the dangerous enterprise by four friends. One of them was an officer, Major Charles Campbell. There were two brothers of the name of Gibson and a man named Dixon.

The party of five, fully armed, set out from the fort, it being in the latter part of September, and made a safe journey to Laughlin's deserted clearing, not seeing any foes on the way. Whether or not they found the missing horses cannot be told, but they did run into a very unfortunate experience. While taking their ease in the cabin they were surrounded by a party of hostile Wyandots who were under the command of a French ranger. No attack was made on their lives, but they were called upon to surrender. This they refused to do, preferring to die in a fight rather than to run the risk of torture in an Indian camp. But the leader of the redskins promised them that if they should give themselves up their lives would be spared, so they surrendered. Before being carried away their captors allowed them to write a note explaining what had happened to them and to fasten it on the door of the cabin.

Then the long journey was begun into the western forests. They were taken across the Allegheny and along the northwestern Ohio trails to Detroit. After a short detention at that place they were sent with a party which was on its way to Quebec. There they were kept as prisoners till the following year, when they were released at the time of an exchange. They took ship for Boston, but on the way Dixon and one of the Gibson brothers, having suffered too great hardships during this period of misfortune, died at sea.

The three survivors reached New England safely, and in due time all were able to greet their old friends again on the border. Their subsequent careers are not of interest to this narrative, but one of them at least came to eminence in later life.

STORY OF A FRONTIER FORT

Built to Aid in the Attack on Detroit, but Soon Abandoned.

An important frontier fort was that built on the Tuscarawas river near the site of the present town of Bolivar, O., in the fall of 1778. There had been a treaty made with the Delaware Indians that summer, one of the provisions of which was that before making any military demonstrations against the British at Detroit the Americans should erect a fort in their territory which should serve as a protection to their women and children while hostilities were being carried on.

Soon after this treaty was made General McIntosh led a force of 1,300 men out from Fort Pitt and, after tarrying some time at the mouth of the Beaver river, pressed on and came to the Tuscarawas near where Bolivar was afterward founded. It had been his plan to march southward from here and erect the promised fort at the Delaware capital, Coshocton, but on the way out an unfortunate event had happened, the assassination of the Delaware chief, White Eyes, which angered the Indians and caused them to retire sullenly to their town.

McIntosh feared that it was useless to proceed on his intended errand, so he determined to erect his fort where he was then camped and afterward to plan his Detroit campaign. Accordingly, he set to work and constructed a stockaded fort, to which the name of Laurens was given in honor of the president of congress. It was located on the west bank of the Tuscarawas river and about a thousand yards below the present town of Bolivar. The fort was not large, the ground inclosed measuring scarcely more than an acre. It was constructed by throwing up embankments of earth to a good height and then putting on top of these a strong stockade made of logs set upright in the ground and pointed at the ends.

When the work of construction was finished the winter was already coming on, so, leaving 150 Virginian troops to garrison the new fort under Colonel

John Gibson, General McIntosh set his face eastward and, pausing to garrison the fort at the mouth of the Beaver, marched on to Fort Pitt, where he spent the winter.

Fort Laurens was not long occupied, being found both useless and untenable, so far on the outposts was it, so in August, 1779, it was evacuated. A writer who visited this spot half a century ago wrote: "Half a mile below Bolivar are the remains of Fort Laurens, erected in the war of the Revolution and named from the president of the Revolution congress. It was the scene of border warfare and bloodshed. The canal passes through its earthen walls. The parapet walls are now a few feet in height and were once crowned with pickets made of the split trunks of trees. The walls inclose about an acre of land and stand on the west bank of the 'Tuscarawas.' Such are the story and the fate of this unfortunate work."

A Test of Strength.

Tradition has immortalized one Adargoma of Grand Canary, who could wrestle for two consecutive hours and, having been thrown undermost in a certain contest, got his antagonist between his legs and arms and squeezed him so that his bones began to crack.

The native was subsequently sent as a prisoner to Spain, where he astounded the people by his performances. One day in Seville he was visited by a brash youth of La Mancha, who was anxious to try a bout with him. "My good friend," said Adargoma, "as we are going to wrestle together it is only reasonable that we should begin by drinking something."

A large bowl of wine having been brought, he took this in one hand and continued to address his challenger: "If with both your arms you can overpower one of mine so as to hinder me from drinking every drop of this wine we will try our strength together; if not, you may return to your home." The struggle took place, and Adargoma by degrees drained the bowl in the coolest manner without spilling a drop of the wine. His one hand was more than a match for the other's two.

Why People Stammer.

Stammering depends on a want of harmony between the action of the muscles (chiefly abdominal) which expel air through the larynx and that of the muscles which guard the orifice by which it escapes with that of those which modulate the sound to the form of speech. Over either of the groups of muscles by itself a stammerer may have as much power as other people, but he cannot harmoniously arrange their conjoint action. Nervousness is a frequent cause of stammering. It is possible that the defect in some instances may result from malformation of the parts about the back of the mouth. The fact that stammering people are able to sing their words better than to speak them has been usually explained on the supposition that in singing the glottis is kept open so that there is less liability to spasmodic action.

A Bit of Good Advice in Time.

"An Antoinette Sterling story relates to 'The Lost Chord,' which she made famous. The song did not appeal to her when the manuscript was sent to her by Sullivan. But Sir Joseph Barnby spent an evening at her house at that time, and in a casual way she remarked: 'By the way, Arthur Sullivan has sent me a manuscript of a new song, which he has asked me to sing. You might look at it. Personally, I don't think much of it and am going to return it.' Barnby tried it over there and then, and before he had gone half through it he stopped and said: 'Going to return it, did you say? It is wonderful—an inspiration. Certainly, tell him you will sing it. It is bound to 'make' both you and him.' Mme. Sterling always thanked the fates for bringing Barnby to her house that night.—London Chronicle.

Didn't Know How to Play.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Tomkins, "I have done you a great injustice."

"In what way?"

"I suspected you without reason. I asked several of your friends that you go out with of evenings whether you knew how to play poker, and every one of them thought a minute and said you didn't."—Washington Star.

The Envious One.

The envious person is in pain upon all occasions which ought to give him pleasure. The relish of his life is lost, and the objects which administer the highest satisfaction to those who are exempt from this passion give the quickest pangs to persons who are subject to it. All the perfections of their fellow creatures are odious.

Chinese Terms of Endearment.

In China a wife is never spoken of by her husband in a plain and straightforward way. Such playful terms as "my thorn in the ribs" and "my dull companion" are more usual, but leave something to be desired on the score of elegance. "The mean one of the inner room" has a distinct flavor of masculine selfishness about it.

THE CAMPUS MARTIUS

Not the Classic Roman Field,
but a Famous Frontier Fort.

A NOBLE AND USEFUL CITADEL.

Contained Within its Walls the Facilities For Offering a Stout Defense and Maintaining a Long Siege. Built by Earnest Pioneer Patriots Who Were Well Educated Men.

[Copyright, 1904, by American Press Association.]

One might imagine from reading the title of this sketch that it had to do with classical Rome, but the Campus Martius of which this was written was a stockaded fortress of great importance which was erected just after the settlement at the mouth of the Muskingum river. It was completed in 1791.

The following description of this ambitious pioneer work is gathered from an old volume written long ago. The walls formed a regular parallelogram, the sides of which were 180 feet each. At each corner was erected a strong blockhouse, surmounted by a tower and sentry box. These houses were twenty feet square below and twenty-four feet above and projected six feet beyond the curtains or walls of the fort. The intermediate curtains were built up with dwelling houses made of wood, whipsawed into timbers four inches thick and of the requisite width and length. These were laid up similar to the structure of log houses, with the ends nicely dovetailed to make a neat finish.

The whole was two stories high and covered with good shingle roofs. Convenient chimneys were erected of bricks for cooking and for warming the rooms. A number of the dwelling houses were built and owned by private individuals who had families. In the west and south fronts were strong gateways, and over that one in the center of the front looking to the Muskingum river was a belfry. The chamber underneath was occupied by the Hon. Winthrop Sargent as an office, he being secretary to the governor of the newly created Northwest Territory, General Arthur St. Clair, and performing the duties of governor in his absence. This room projected over the gateway and was intended for the protection of the gate beneath in case of an assault. At the outer corner of each blockhouse was erected a bastion, standing on four stout timbers. Portholes were made for musketry as well as for artillery, a single piece of which was mounted in the southwest and northeast bastions. In these the sentries were regularly posted every night as being more convenient of access than the towers.

Running from corner to corner of the blockhouses was a row of palisades, sloping outward and resting on stout rails. Twenty feet in advance of these was a row of very strong and large pickets set upright in the earth. Gateways through these admitted the inmates of the garrison. A few feet beyond the outer palisades was placed a row of abatis, made from the tops and branches of trees, sharpened and pointing outward, so that it would have been difficult for an enemy to have penetrated even within the outer works of these Ohio pioneers. The dwelling houses occupied a space from fifteen to thirty feet each and were sufficient for the accommodation of forty or fifty families, and did actually contain from 200 to 300 persons, men, women and children, during the long Indian war which soon followed the erection of this fortress in the wilderness.

Governor St. Clair used to occupy the southwest blockhouse, and the northwest one was used as a church and a courtroom. The area within the walls was 144 feet square and afforded a fine parade ground. In the center was a well eighty feet deep for the supply of water to the inhabitants in case of a siege. A large sundial stood for many years in the square, placed on a handsome post. For many years after the Campus Martius was only a memory this dial was preserved as a relic.

This somewhat detailed description is given because of the surpassing historical value of this famous old fortification. The brave hearted company of people who thus early left their comfortable eastern homes and set out into the wilderness to found a new empire were noble and famous men. They were highly educated and had classical tastes. When they reached their frontier home and made their clearings they constructed their fortress in the most highly approved style and gave to it a historic Latin name. To us of this now practical day all this sounds pedantic, but to the pioneers on the Muskingum

They took ship for Boston, but on the way Dixon and one of the Gibson brothers, having suffered too great hardships during this period of misfortune, died at sea. The three survivors reached New England safely, and in due time all were able to greet their old friends again on the border. Their subsequent careers are not of interest to this narrative, but one of them at least came to eminence in later life.

STORY OF A FRONTIER FORT

Built to Aid in the Attack on Detroit, but Soon Abandoned.

An important frontier fort was built on the Tuscarawas river near the site of the present town of Bolivar, O., in the fall of 1778. There had been a treaty made with the Delaware Indians that summer, one of the provisions of which was that before making any military demonstrations against the British at Detroit the Americans should erect a fort in their territory which should serve as a protection to their women and children while hostilities were being carried on.

Soon after this treaty was made General McIntosh led a force of 1,300 men out from Fort Pitt and, after tarrying some time at the mouth of the Beaver river, pressed on and came to the Tuscarawas near where Bolivar was afterward founded. It had been his plan to march southward from here and erect the promised fort at the Delaware capital, Coshocton, but on the way out an unfortunate event had happened, the assassination of the Delaware chief, White Eyes, which angered the Indians and caused them to retire sullenly to their town.

McIntosh feared that it was useless to proceed on his intended errand, so he determined to erect his fort where he was then camped and afterward to plan his Detroit campaign. Accordingly, he set to work and constructed a stockaded fort, to which the name of Laurens was given in honor of the president of congress. It was located on the west bank of the Tuscarawas river and about a thousand yards below the present town of Bolivar. The fort was not large, the ground inclosed measuring scarcely more than an acre. It was constructed by throwing up embankments of earth to a good height and then putting on top of these a strong stockade made of logs set upright in the ground and pointed at the ends.

When the work of construction was finished the winter was already coming on, so, leaving 150 Virginian troops to garrison the new fort under Colonel

John Gibson, General McIntosh set his face eastward and, pausing to garrison the fort at the mouth of the Beaver, marched on to Fort Pitt, where he spent the winter.

Fort Laurens was not long occupied, being found both useless and untenable, so far on the outskirts was it, so in August, 1779, it was evacuated. A writer who visited this spot half a century ago wrote: "Half a mile below Bolivar are the remains of Fort Laurens, erected in the war of the Revolution and named from the president of the Revolution congress. It was the scene of border warfare and bloodshed. The canal passes through its earthen walls. The parapet walls are now a few feet in height and were once crowned with pickets made of the split trunks of trees. The walls inclose about an acre of land and stand on the west bank of the Tuscarawas." Such are the story and the fate of this unfortunate work.

A Test of Strength.
Tradition has immortalized one Adargoma of Grand Canany, who could wrestle for two consecutive hours and, having been thrown undermost in a certain contest, got his antagonist between his legs and arms and squeezed him so that his bones began to crack. The native was subsequently sent as a prisoner to Spain, where he astounded the people by his performances. One day in Seville he was visited by a brawny youth of La Mancha, who was anxious to try a bout with him. "My good friend," said Adargoma, "as we are going to wrestle together it is only reasonable that we should begin by drinking something."

A large bowl of wine having been brought, he took this in one hand and continued to address his challenger: "If with both your arms you can overpower one of mine so as to hinder me from drinking every drop of this wine we will try our strength together; if not, you may return to your home." The struggle took place, and Adargoma by degrees drained the bowl in the coolest manner without spilling a drop of the wine. His one hand was more than a match for the other's two.

Why People Stammer.
Stammering depends on a want of harmony between the action of the muscles (chiefly abdominal) which expel air through the larynx and that of the muscles which guard the orifice by which it escapes with that of those which modulate the sound to the form of speech. Over either of the groups of muscles by itself a stammerer may have as much power as other people, but he cannot harmoniously arrange their conjoint action. Nervousness is a frequent cause of stammering. It is possible that the defect in some instances may result from malformation of the parts about the back of the mouth. The fact that stammering people are able to sing their words better than to speak them has been usually explained on the supposition that in singing the glottis is kept open so that there is less liability to spasmodic action.

A Bit of Good Advice in Time.
An Antoinette Sterling story relates to "The Lost Chord," which she made famous. The song did not appeal to her when the manuscript was sent to her by Sullivan. But Sir Joseph Barnby spent an evening at her house at that time, and in a casual way she remarked: "By the way, Arthur Sullivan has sent me a manuscript of a new song, which he has asked me to sing. You might look at it. Personally, I don't think much of it and am going to return it." Barnby tried it over there and then, and before he had gone half through it he stopped and said: "Going to return it, did you say? It is wonderful—an inspiration. Certainly, tell him you will sing it. It is bound to 'make' both you and him." Mme. Sterling always thanked the fates for bringing Barnby to her house that night.—London Chronicle.

Didn't Know How to Play.
"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Tomkins, "I have done you a great injustice."

"In what way?"

"I suspected you without reason. I asked several of your friends that you go out with of evenings whether you knew how to play poker, and every one of them thought a minute and said you didn't."—Washington Star.

The Envious One.
The envious person is in pain upon all occasions which ought to give him pleasure. The relish of his life is lost, and the objects which administer the highest satisfaction to those who are exempt from this passion give the quickest pangs to persons who are subject to it. All the perfections of their fellow creatures are odious.

Chinese Terms of Endearment.
In China a wife is never spoken of by her husband in a plain and straightforward way. Such playful terms as "my thorn in the ribs" and "my dull companion" are more usual, but leave something to be desired on the score of elegance. "The mean one of the inner room" has a distinct flavor of masculine selfishness about it.

"It is of the son of a poor woodcut-ter. Telling once by his hut in the forest, he saw by chance the daughter of a king as she rode past with her caval-er. He brought her a cup of water, and she smiled on him. So fair she was that he loved her to desperation and could not rest nor sleep from thinking of her face. He traveled far and came by night beneath her window and sang songs to her, songs delicate and beauti-ful, in phrases that only his great love had taught him, and when he sang he reached the strings of his own heart. The lady listened, and her tears fell down from the window in the palace wall. She was a great lady and he the lowest of the land, and in the hopeless-ness of his passion he sang that he was a prince of a hostile country, woo-ling in attire of rags the darling to whose presence he might not rightly come. His were not like the songs of the gilded courtiers that flocked her father's gate. They were more noble and true, and his love climbed upon them as if on stairs of gold and drew her heart out to him over the sill. One night she slipped out to his arms in the darkness. Then he knelt on the yellow-est leaves and told her the truth and pleaded as excuse his great love. And he would have gone from her and left her to go back alone."

"What then?" demanded Anne.
"She took his hand and kissed him and went away with him to his hut in the forest."
Both were silent a moment.
The vivid tints in the sky were pal-ling. The river's silver dulled to mauve. The gloom, all luminous, seemed an impatient suitor stealing amorously upon the drowsy day. The day stirred, glowed again and spread out a tawny flood as a woman drops her hair under some golden lamp to please a lover's whim.

"Thank you," he asked then very low, "that such a love might be?"
"Twas for love of her," she said softly.
When he spoke again she felt a thrill in his voice.
"Mademoiselle, suppose a man loves with a love that fills all the sky; that for him there was but the one woman in the world. Suppose she found that he was not what she had thought him when she first loved him; that the idol she had worshiped was just clay. If he stood mean and small before the world—before her—but still loving her, adoring her! If it were not a princess going to a hut in the forest, but a woman proud and—ashamed! Could she still love him as before? Could she? Could she?"

Her eyes could not meet his burning ones.
"Monsieur," she said, quivering, "when a woman loves, she will forgive everything—in the man she loves save—"

She stopped. There was a muffled sound of horse hoofs from the climbing road.
"Save what?"
"Save lack of love for her."
The hoof beats were coming nearer. She made a desperate effort to compose herself. He had bent toward her, so near she could smell the fragrance of hazel bushes in his hair.

"Then it would not matter, she would not care!" he cried joyously. "He might be either the prince or the woodcutter, mademoiselle?"

The last shaft of the sunlight stum-bled and tangled on her brow. Dark loomed near. Only a gold brush was laid lightly upon the middle distance.
"If a woman loved and was loved so might else would count, not even— even if we were despised by all the world—even— Her lips were tremu-lous. She felt his hand on the bench beside her suddenly touch her own.
There was a tramping behind them. Both turned to the porch, where Lord Fairfax stood leaning on Joe's arm to welcome the two riders who had just dismounted. The young man made an exclamation.

"Why," exclaimed Anne, "'tis the governor himself, returned from Fort Pitt!"

As they approached, the girl crimson-ing with the memory of her night en-tered to the Winchester fort, the earl was bending hulkily over the hand of Mrs. Tillotson in the doorway.

"You honor my poor house with this visit," said the old man, beaming. "Anne, you know his excellency."
The governor bowed to her courtesy and set his eyes on the paler face of the figure at her side. First a low chuckle began in his throat; then he slapped his thigh.
"So that was how the land lay!" he gasped. "Not content with quarrel-ling with my soldiers, eh? And incogni-to yet, I'll be bound!"
The baron stood staring, and Anne looked a bit frightened.
The governor reached a thick arm and prodded the young man genially in the ribs.
"Sly dog, eh?" he winked. "Tut, tut! Would you still deny us poor Virgini-ans? Hail, then, come here! Ladies, my Lord Fairfax, it pleases me to present to you M. le Marquis de la Trou-erie."

CHAPTER X.

THE Marquis de la Trouerie was a huge success. Williamsburg's wealth and beauty vied in en-tertaining him, and no rout was complete without him.

At the Raleigh tavern, whose low wooden walls were kept a-throb with packs of new devilities brought by young bloods of the navy from the sloop of war Fovey, came to anchor in York Roads, he was the center of ob-servation when he died. Commissions in the royal navy went for gold in that rotten reign, and their holders were younger sons with as much money to spend as the younger sons of the broad natures of Virginia.

Young Brooke, who, by aid of half the broken fortune harpies and rooks of London, had long ago run through all he could lay hands on and whose talk was always, "When I hunted at Turbridge Wells with my Lord This," or "When my Lord That had me at Hendon castle for Easter," had now nobility near at home to descend upon.

"A great man in France," he would enlighten the roomful, smoothing his ruffles, "favorite of Marie Antoi-nette's, they say, and as rich as John Dory. Egad, I'd like the pattern of the coat he had on this morning!"

As for the marquis, he took his hon-ors quietly, superbly. More than once it was reported that he had dined pri-vately with the royal governor, but he himself clearly thought it scarce worth mentioning.

An interesting story of a duel with Captain Foy gained currency for a time. The captain was said to have wounded the marquis slightly by foul means, but Foy was absent much of the time on business for the governor, and the story was forgotten save for the passing glamour it cast upon the new favorite.

The nobleman's preference for the beauty of Williamsburg was soon per-ceived, and very early Mrs. Byrd had begun to hint at broken hearts and the folly of young girls who set their eyes too high.

Anne herself was never so beautiful, never so brilliant, never so willfully captivating, nor when, a scarf of gayety hid the passion of many hearts fermenting.

On an afternoon they two, Anne and Armand, walked slowly under the pines that stretched down from the gateway of Gladden Hall.

Just before the martletted gateway he stopped.
"You are cruel to me, mademoiselle." His voice was anxious, vibrating, long-ing.

"Why cruel, monsieur?"
"Ah, I need not tell you that!" he said, looking at her earnestly. "Is it that I have failed? Am I not some-how what you would wish in—a noble-man? Is there something lacking?"

She shook her head. "No, no."
"Yet something is different. I have searched so hard to find what it is. I have seen you at the routs and have not danced with you, but you are not the same. At Greenway Court, there where the leaves were falling—I wish it could have been so always, us two, in the forest—you were kinder and not so cold to me!"

"Marquis!" There was a splendor of color in her face, bent sweet to him. Her eyes, tinted and lustrous, were gay beneath the warm glimmer of her hair.

"Marquis!" repeated the young man, flushing. "I was not that to you in the forest. I found then that you were not like the ladies of my land, who know naught save grandeur and titles, but that you were such a one as I things, that you were somewhere. I have dreamed must be somewhere. I ask you only to be to me as you were then—as you were that day when the governor came back—when I sat with you on the hillside. Can you forget, mademoiselle, that I am not just the same that I was then?"

"You are so much more. Then I did not know who you were."
"I would the governor had not come," he said. "I would have remained to you just the same as I had been—the same as when for one moment I held you in the broken coach, and that mo-ment when I opened my eyes at Green-way Court and saw your face!"

way Court and saw your face!"
She felt her hands trembling, her heart beating its way through her breast. His voice was very low as he went on:

"A man finds some time the one of all the world he would not have cold to him. He may never have seen her—her whom he has looked for all his life—the woman in his heart! But he al-ways knows her when he hears her speak! He can never know when or where that may be. It is at the ball or walking in the street or riding in a coach. That day, mademoiselle—and it was before you knew—I was just M. Armand, not the Marquis de la Trouerie. I was not great then, but just a man—and unworthy!"

"No," she said, her tone tremulous; "not unworthy. That night at the tavern in Winchester—that was the bravest thing I had ever seen—the noblest! Do you think anything, any-thing, could make me forget that?"

"And you would have come to me! But now—but now—"
She looked at him with a little vi-brant thrill of pride. How sweetly blind he was! "Now?" she asked.

"Now I can only ask you to remem-ber that it was M. Armand, not the marquis, who knelt to you when you laid your hand on his head that night at Winchester, with the whippoorwill and the moonlight, and who told you—what he is trying to tell you now, what he tried to tell you when you saw him lying at Greenway Court, only you would not listen!"

She turned to him a look that was all melting, all tenderness, all confusion of impulses, a look that caught him and held him spellbound.

"You kissed me," cried Armand in a triumphant voice. "You kissed me! It was not a dream! Look in my eyes."
She looked at him, paling, feeling her hands imprisoned in his own. He laughed with a low, fierce delight, for her breath was quick, her eyes like mist and fire.

"Do you love me?" he breathed, a sudden passion leaping in his voice. "Do you love me?" He caught her close to him. The whole world turned beneath her feet, and the stars shook. "My gold rose! Tell me! Is it so?"

She moved her head with a mingled gesture of pride, of shame of yielding, of assent. Then with a little cry, fright-ened yet joyful, she felt his arms, mas-terful, draw her close to him and stood trembling, joyous, a wave of love en-gulfing her.

"Answer me," he said. "The night we sat in the rustic house and the sun was a big red flower closing. You re-member what I asked you?"

"Yes."
"If the man you loved—if I—should come to be mean and unworthy before the world?"

"But you are not."
"If I were?"
"My king!"

"If you saw me sneered at, despised, but still loving, still worshipping?"
"I would love you! I would love you!"

A light came over his face, brilliant and pale. "With the love that is the all, that is greater than the world, that is above station, above honors, above name? That outlasts them all?"

Her arms went up about his neck, and their lips met in a first long kiss.
"Ah!" she whispered. "Ah! Ah! Lou-is! My beloved!"

A Timely Suggestion.
This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be ward off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold ap-pears. There is no danger in giving it to children, for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. Sold by Alvin H. Salger.

EMINENT DOCTORS PRAISE MUCU-TONE

OW can we measure the importance to mankind of the discovery of an absolute cure for catarrh, that dreaded malady which attacks the mucous membrane or delicate underlining of the skin of the body.

The disease which for years has discouraged scientists—the disease which numbers 12,000,000 men and women sufferers in the United States alone.

The heads of great hospitals, where scores of catarrhal patients are treated each year, are perhaps in the best position to appreciate the value of a remedy, which working along scientific, intelligent lines, brings permanent cure to even the chronic sufferer.

The staff of physicians of the Suffolk Hospital and Dispensary in Boston, where in less than two years 83,271 patients have registered, do not hesitate to pronounce Rexall Mucu-Tone the best cure for catarrh they have ever used.

Albert C. Smith is the president and treasurer and the Hon. Chas. J. Noyes and the Hon. James Stevens are vice-presidents. The secretary is F. H. Wallace, M. D., and the superintendent is W. C. Clarke, M. D.

President Smith's letter should be read by every catarrh sufferer. We print it in full:

"It gives me great satisfaction to report to you that after a most careful trial of Rexall Mucu-Tone, the corps of physicians of our institution agree that this compound is the best cure for catarrh which we have ever used.

"In all catarrhal diseases of the bronchial and nasal passages; catarrh of the stomach, intestines, kidneys and bladder; catarrhal troubles of the generative organs of women, etc., Mucu-Tone has effected remarkable permanent cures.

"Mucu-Tone seems to act immediately upon the blood and mucous membranes, strengthening their cells and healing the inflammation.

"We shall continue to use this valuable preparation, for nothing can compare with it in the treatment of catarrh and its kindred troubles.

"Yours very truly,

A. C. SMITH, President."

Certainly such testimony as this must convince even the most skeptical—certainly it will justify us in requesting catarrh sufferers to give Rexall Mucu-Tone a trial; to give it a chance to speak for itself. If you will do this we know you will continue taking it until cured.

Rexall Mucu-Tone is unlike all other catarrh remedies. It works through the bloodvessels, going direct to the affected part whether in head, throat, stomach, kidneys or bladder; driving out the poisons and healing all inflammations of the mucous membranes. From the very first dose its strengthening influence will be felt and from four to six bottles will effect a complete cure of the worst cases. Your money back if not more than satisfied.

Sold only at our store.

WORDY WAR IN HOUSE

Democrats Reiterate Charges of Rottenness in Post-office Department.

DENIAL MADE BY LEADER PAYNE

Credit for Prosecution of Northern Securities Company Denied the Administration by Mr. Williams of Mississippi.

Washington, March 18.—Mr. Southwick of New York precipitated a lively debate in the house by having read an editorial from the New York World giving Republicans credit for anti-trust legislation and the merger prosecution. It was offered by way of reply to Mr. Williams, who had asked if the merger decision was to be used by the Republicans as a theatrical political trick.

Mr. Williams, after the editorial had been read, declared that the securities prosecution was instigated by Governor Van Sant, whom he styled "a blanket Indian Republican," who refused to consult "headquarters," and that for very shame, after he had the case docketed, the administration prior to an election could not hold itself still.

Throughout the day the postoffice appropriation bill was under discussion and little progress was made. The minority leader declared the postoffice department was rotten from turret to foundation stone and the Republicans were trying to reorganize it on an appropriation bill. Further criticizing the proposed increases in salaries, Mr. Williams, as if by way of emphasis, said: "Remember this is a department that is absolutely rotten from turret to foundation stone."

Mr. Payne (N. Y.), the Republican leader, asked, "Where does the gentleman get his information?"

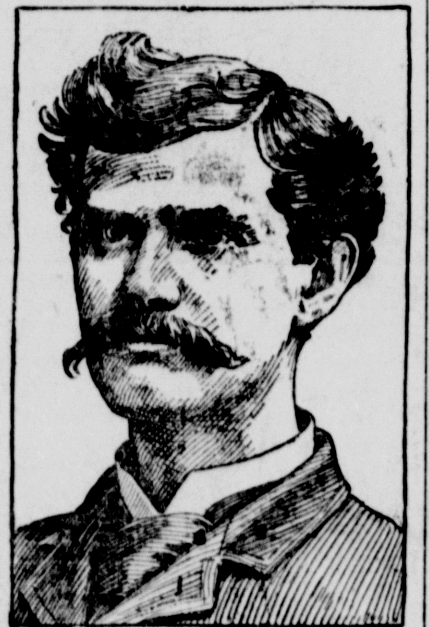

"I get it from their own office," said Mr. Williams.

"Then you don't get it at all," hotly retorted Mr. Payne.

More Corruption There.

"I do," warmly replied Mr. Williams, "and I get it from their charges against themselves and I get it from the charge contained in the president's message and I get it from the knowledge that prevails in this house." He said that only one division of the postoffice department had been investigated. "I believe and I believe the gentleman from New York believes that there are other divisions in it equally corrupt."

Mr. Payne said he did not believe anything of the kind and he had not seen a single man who knew anything about it. "And still," he said, "the gentleman indulges in this extravagant language that the whole department is rotten."

Mr. Grosvenor (O.), speaking in a sarcastic vein, said that great bureaus of the postoffice department had been transferred to the fourth assistant postmaster general and he thought it would be a good idea to let Bristow "run the whole machine" and thereby save the salaries of the other three assistants.

The charge that the postoffice department had diverted appropriations for rent, fuel, etc., to the payment of clerk hire was vigorously made by Mr. Williams, and he demanded to know who was responsible for that abuse and for changing the law to suit his own sweet will. "Somebody," he said, "has been depriving the legislative branch of the government of its constitutional right to say where the public money shall go. Some underling in the department had been making laws by construction," he added.

Laws Wrongly Construed.

Mr. Overstreet said there was a belief in the department that the construction of the appropriation would permit the practice.

Mr. Williams warmly replied that there never was a man born so great a fool as to contend that an appropriation for rent meant an appropriation for fuel. He then spoke of the independence of the civil service commission and "their absolute contempt of the law." "They don't hesitate any minute," he declared, "to violate the law any time they please and tell you with suavity that it was because of a construction put upon the law by somebody, God only knows who." He said the most discouraging thing in

American citizenship as represented in the house was for an honest man to come to congress and find himself hedged all around with a wilderness of misinformation, overinformation and non-information, "whatever happens to suit the fellows who write their decrees and send them here to be registered in appropriation bills."

Mr. Southwick (N. Y.), referring to Mr. Williams' remarks on the subject of trusts, had read an editorial from the New York World, saying that the antitrust law was framed by a Republican, passed by a Republican senate and signed by a Republican president, and that it had remained a dead letter on the statute books during the second term of President Cleveland. The Republicans vigorously applauded.

Mr. Knox's Interview.

Mr. Williams said he was more than delighted to see the Republican majority on the floor "cheer the hounds on to hunt down the combines and trusts of this country." He would, he said, be even more delighted if he didn't know that "you are very much like the month of March—you come in like lions and go out like lambs," which created laughter on the Democratic side. He added: "I want the country to watch and see how far the applause is going to end in fruition."

Already, he continued, Mr. Knox had been careful to be interviewed and to permit the country to know "that you are not running amuck" against trusts generally; that the Northern Securities case just settles the Northern Securities case, and that it does not mean anything particularly, anyhow, and seemed to be fully anxious that the country should understand and does not mean anything particularly, anyhow.

One statement in the article referred to, he said, credited this administration as being the author of the prosecution. It happened to be, he declared, "one Van Sant out in the west somewhere who started the case, and for very shame, after he had gotten the case upon the docket, the administration, prior to an election could not hold itself still."

It was the only thing the Republican party did not stand pat on until after the election, he said, amid Democratic applause, "and you would have stood pat on that if you had dared Governor Van Sant was a 'blanket Indian Republican,' and he did not consult headquarters, but precipitated the litigation."

Answering Mr. Southwick as to whether he knew Governor Van Sant's politics, Mr. Williams said he already had stated to be a blanket Indian Republican—"a man who actually meant what you fellows were pretending to mean when you were applauding a moment ago." Loud applause on the Democratic side.

ON CANFIELD'S TRAIL.

New York District Attorney Urges Necessary Legislation.

Albany, N. Y., March 18.—"I want to put Richard Canfield in state's prison and I want Reginald Vanderbilt of New York as a witness to help me do it," declared District Attorney Jerome of New York city to the senate codes committee in the course of a hearing on a bill to make it possible for a witness to give testimony without having his evidence used against him and which eliminates the excuse of declining to testify through fear of incriminating himself.

Amendments providing that the measure should not take effect until Sept. 1 next nor apply to pending litigation which were under discussion brought out this utterance from Mr. Jerome, who declared that the amendments would utterly destroy the effect of the bill and that if it were enacted in its present form it would give immunity to Richard Canfield and "would permit him to enjoy another season of prosperity at Saratoga."

M'COMAS SURPRISED.

Opponents of 8-Hour Bill Seem to Be Badly Informed.

Washington, March 18.—At the close of the hearing on the 8-hour bill before the senate committee on education and labor Chairman McComas expressed the utmost surprise at what he termed the misapprehension that existed among jobbers and manufacturers as to the effect of the bill if enacted into law.

He said there seemed to be a studied effort to build up objections which did not exist and to excite others who were not in the least affected by the measure. He adjourned the committee until next Tuesday and announced that the time of the speakers would then be more limited than it has been in the past.

SENATE SCHEDULE.

Labor Bills and Other Measures Will Be Side-Track.

Washington, March 18.—The Republican steering committee of the senate has decided to press appropriation bills to the front, side-track all legislation likely to endanger party strife and then, if the session is prolonged, place the responsibility on the Democrats. One of the members of the committee earnestly advocated adjourning by April 15, but it was agreed that this would be impossible. The committee discussed an order of business for the rest of the session and decided to side-track the general building measures, the several labor bills, the Hepburn-Doolittle bill, and all similar legislation.

Double Tragedy on a Farm.

Nemaha, Neb., March 18.—David Carroll, shot and killed Annie Maxwell, a 16-year-old girl, and then killed himself. Carroll was employed by Miss Maxwell's father as a farm hand.

MALARIA

Germ Infected Air.

Malaria is not confined exclusively to the swamps and marshy regions of the country, but wherever there is bad air this insidious foe to health is found. Poisonous vapors and gases from sewers, and the musty air of damp cellars are laden with the germs of this miserable disease, which are breathed into the lungs and taken up by the blood and transmitted to every part of the body. Then you begin to feel out of sorts without ever suspecting the cause. No energy or appetite, dull headaches, sleepy and tired and completely fagged out from the slightest exertion, are some of the deplorable effects of this enfeebling malady. As the disease progresses and the blood becomes more deeply poisoned, boils and abscesses and dark or yellow spots appear upon the skin. When the poison is left to ferment and the microbes and germs to multiply in the blood, liver and kidney troubles and other serious complications often arise. As Malaria begins and develops in the blood, the treatment to be effective must begin there too. S. S. Contagion! Contagion!

This is the Alarm that must be Sounded Against Catarrh.

It is Contagious! It is Catching! It is Infectious!

Catarrh is a GERM disease and must be so treated henceforth. BRAZILIAN BALM is the only antidote that destroys the infectious germ and makes a radical cure.

A Home Treatment for $1.00 With Tonic Free

We all know that Small Pox, Typhoid, Diphtheria, Measles, Mumps, Scarlet Fever, Whooping Cough, etc., are "catching." They are "catching" or contagious because they are germ or microbe diseases. This is no theory, it is a proved fact, admitted by all scientific men. Dr. Theodore Potter, the eminent Bacteriologist, says: "We can see bacteria, can cultivate them, can identify and grow the different varieties. We can plant them in the bodies of men and animals and reproduce at will the diseases from which the bacteria were obtained."

This is equally true of Catarrh. The catarrh-like breath of the Catarrh victim is laden with these malignant germs; so is the pus. Put a drop of it under a powerful microscope and see the wriggles. They are very minute it is true. It takes 200,000 of them laid side by side to cover an inch on the rule, but there is probably no microbe so long lived, so persistent, so voracious and so hard to kill.

Not Climatic.

The opinion has widely prevailed that Catarrh was caused by climatic conditions. This is found to be a mistake, and has had most disastrous results, leaving the disease to spread unchecked over wide sections of the country. Possibly some localities are more favorable to its development and violence than others, but there must be the seed before you can get the harvest. Oats must be sown to produce oats, and wheat to produce wheat. The Small Pox microbe must be sown to produce Small Pox, the Mumps microbe to produce Mumps. So the Catarrh microbe must be sown in to produce Catarrh, eliminate or no climate. The Catarrh germ will produce Catarrh and nothing else will produce it.

Again, Among the Aborigines of this country Catarrh was unknown. That proves it is not "climatic." Another thing. It took 200 years for Catarrh to get a foothold among us. Forty years ago less than 5 per cent. of the adult population were affected. Today there are over 20,000,000 victims, and rapidly multiplying. Has "climate" done this? Could anything do it but contagion?

How has it Spread?

The breath! The food, germ-laden breath. Also by contact, as in kissing. Also from expectorations; and washing in the same bowl, using the same towels, napkins, etc., used by those afflicted with this putrid disease. It does not spring from the blood or any condition of the blood. The Catarrh microbe is never found in the "blood." It is not a "blood disease," and cannot be cured by "blood medicines." It is a germ disease and is propagated as above stated. It could not be propagated through the "blood."

A Sanitary Problem.

So rapid have been the ravages of this putrid distemper within the last few years that it must soon come to the front as the most vital sanitary problem. The disease is everywhere, but in many localities it is a veritable pestilence. If every house were quarantined where it exists how many houses would fail to display the "Yellow Flag?" Every one must help to stamp out this plague. Every one is vitally interested. Every one who is now free from it must avoid contagion as they would Small Pox or the Cholera. Those who are afflicted with it, even in a mild form, should hasten to get cured, and the other members of the family for their own safety, should insist on instant action. With united action the plague can be stayed and stamped out.

One Sure Cure.

Fortunately an antidote has at last been found for this filthy and infectious disorder. At last, after everything else had failed, and even the doctors had given up in despair, Brazilian Balm was discovered. It kills the microbe instantly; it penetrates between the folds and into the deepest passages of the head, healing the ulcers and running sores. It is the most healing balm in the world. The moment you begin its use it renders the breath and expectoration immune (contagious). It heals the throat, Catarrh, Asthma and Bronchitis. It heals the stomach, which has been made raw and ulcerated by swallowing the germ-laden Catarrh pus. It quickly takes Colds and Grippe out of the system. It has been in use 15 years and cured tens of thousands, even where the throat was eaten out so you could put your finger into the hole an inch deep. It will cure you.

A Great Offer.

Catarrh victims have run down systems and impaired vitality. It recedes hardly be otherwise. They need a good Tonic to help in restoring their lost vigor. A nerve and strength builder. We have the best remedy for this known to science: TOXICOLA TABLETS. We will from the time on, for the next six months, send a month's treatment of TOXICOLA TABLETS with every $1.00 bottle of Brazilian Balm. A $1.00 bottle of Brazilian Balm contains a Month's Treatment. See that the name is blown in the bottle, B. F. Jackson & Co., Indianapolis, Ind. The summer is the best time to treat Catarrh as the disease is less violent than in cold weather.

EMINENT DOCTORS PRAISE MUCU-TONE

OW can we measure the importance to mankind of the discovery of an absolute cure for catarrh, that dreaded malady which attacks the mucous membrane or delicate underlining of the skin of the body.

The disease which for years has discouraged scientists—the disease which numbers 12,000,000 men and women sufferers in the United States alone.

The heads of great hospitals, where scores of catarrhal patients are treated each year, are perhaps in the best position to appreciate the value of a remedy, which working along scientific, intelligent lines, brings permanent cure to even the chronic sufferer.

The staff of physicians of the Suffolk Hospital and Dispensary in Boston, where in less than two years 83,271 patients have registered, do not hesitate to pronounce Rexall Mucu-Tone the best cure for catarrh they have ever used.

Albert C. Smith is the president and treasurer and the Hon. Chas. J. Noyes and the Hon. James Stevens are vice-presidents. The secretary is F. H. Wallace, M. D., and the superintendent is W. C. Clarke, M. D.

President Smith's letter should be read by every catarrh sufferer. We print it in full:

"It gives me great satisfaction to report to you that after a most careful trial of Rexall Mucu-Tone, the corps of physicians of our institution agree that this compound is the best cure for catarrh which we have ever used.

"In all catarrhal diseases of the bronchial and nasal passages; catarrh of the stomach, intestines, kidneys and bladder; catarrhal troubles of the generative organs of women, etc., Mucu-Tone has effected remarkable permanent cures.

"Mucu-Tone seems to act immediately upon the blood and mucous membranes, strengthens their cells and healing the inflammation.

"We shall continue to use this valuable preparation, for nothing can compare with it in the treatment of catarrh and its kindred troubles.

"Yours very truly,
A. C. SMITH, President."

Certainly such testimony as this must convince even the most skeptical—certainly it will justify us in requesting catarrh sufferers to give Rexall Mucu-Tone a trial; to give it a chance to speak for itself. If you will do this we know you will continue taking it until cured.

Rexall Mucu-Tone is unlike all other catarrh remedies. It works through the bloodvessels, going direct to the affected part whether in head, throat, stomach, kidneys or bladder; driving out the poisons and healing all inflammations of the mucous membranes. From the very first dose its strengthening influence will be felt and from four to six bottles will effect a complete cure of the worst cases. Your money back if not more than satisfied.

WORDY WAR IN HOUSE

Democrats Reiterate Charges of Rottenness in Post-office Department.

DENIAL MADE BY LEADER PAYNE

Credit for Prosecution of Northern Securities Company Denied the Administration by Mr. Williams of Mississippi.

Washington, March 18.—Mr. Southwick of New York precipitated a lively debate in the house by having read an editorial from the New York World giving Republicans credit for anti-trust legislation and the merger prosecution. It was offered by way of reply to Mr. Williams, who had asked if the merger decision was to be used by the Republicans as a theatrical political trick.

Mr. Williams, after the editorial had been read, declared that the securities prosecution was instigated by Governor Van Sant, whom he styled "a blanket Indian Republican," who refused to consult "headquarters," and that for very shame, after he had the case docketed, the administration prior to an election could not hold itself still.

Throughout the day the postoffice appropriation bill was under discussion and little progress was made. The minority leader declared the postoffice department was rotten from turret to foundation stone and the Republicans were trying to reorganize it on an appropriation bill. Further criticism of the proposed increases in salaries, Mr. Williams, as if by way of emphasis, said: "Remember this is a department that is absolutely rotten from turret to foundation stone."

Mr. Payne (N. Y.), the Republican leader, asked, "Where does the gentleman get his information?"

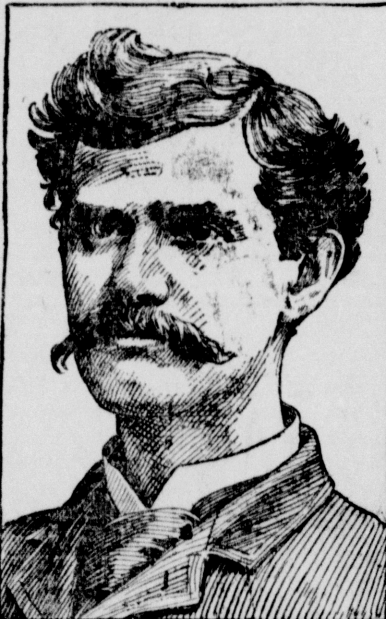

"I get it from their own office," said Mr. Williams.

"Then you don't get it at all," hotly retorted Mr. Payne.

More Corruption There.

"I do," warmly replied Mr. Williams, "and I get it from their charges against themselves and I get it from the charge contained in the president's message and I get it from the knowledge that prevails in this house." He said that only one division of the postoffice department had been investigated. "I believe and I believe the gentleman from New York believes that there are other divisions in it equally corrupt."

Mr. Payne said he did not believe anything of the kind and he had not seen a single man who knew anything about it. "And still," he said, "the gentleman indulges in this extravagant language that the whole department is rotten."

Mr. Grosvenor (O.), speaking in a sarcastic vein, said that great bureaus of the postoffice department had been transferred to the fourth assistant postmaster general and he thought it would be a good idea to let Bristow "run the whole machine" and thereby save the salaries of the other three assistants.

The charge that the postoffice department had diverted appropriations for rent, fuel, etc., to the payment of clerk hire was vigorously made by Mr. Williams, and he demanded to know who was responsible for that abuse and for changing the law to suit his own sweet will. "Somebody," he said, "has been depriving the legislative branch of the government of its constitutional right to say where the public money shall go. Some underling in the department had been making laws by construction," he added.

Laws Wrongly Construed.

Mr. Overstreet said there was a belief in the department that the construction of the appropriation would permit the practice.

Mr. Williams warmly replied that there never was a man born so great a fool as to contend that an appropriation for rent meant an appropriation for fuel. He then spoke of the independence of the civil service commission and "their absolute contempt of the law." "They don't hesitate any minute," he declared, "to violate the law any time they please and tell you with suavity that it was because of a construction put upon the law by somebody, God only knows who." He said the most discouraging thing in

American citizenship as represented in the house was for an honest man to come to congress and find himself hedged all around with a wilderness of misinformation, overinformation and non-information, "whichever happens to suit the fellows who write their decrees and send them here to be registered in appropriation bills."

Mr. Southwick (N. Y.), referring to Mr. Williams' remarks on the subject of trusts, had read an editorial from the New York World, saying that the antitrust law was framed by a Republican, passed by a Republican senate and signed by a Republican president, and that it had remained a dead letter on the statute books during the second term of President Cleveland. The Republicans vigorously applauded.

Mr. Knox's Interview.

Mr. Williams said he was more than delighted to see the Republican majority on the floor "cheer the hounds on to hunt down the combines and trusts of this country." He would, he said, be even more delighted if he didn't know that "you are very much like the month of March—you come in like lions and go out like lambs," which created laughter on the Democratic side. He added: "I want the country to watch and see how far the applause is going to end in fruition." Already, he continued, Mr. Knox had been careful to be interviewed and to permit the country to know "that you are not running amuck" against trusts generally; that the Northern Securities case just settles the Northern Securities case, and that it does not mean anything particularly, anyhow, and seemed to be fully anxious that the country should understand he does not mean anything particularly, anyhow.

One statement in the article referred to, he said, credited this administration as being the author of the prosecution. It happened to be, he declared, "one Van Sant out in the west somewhere who started the case, and for very shame, after he had gotten the case upon the docket, the administration, prior to an election could not hold itself still."

It was the only thing the Republican party did not stand pat on until after the election, he said, amid Democratic applause, "and you would have stood pat on that if you had dared. Governor Van Sant was a 'blanket Indian Republican,' and he did not consult headquarters, but precipitated the litigation."

Answering Mr. Southwick as to whether he knew Governor Van Sant's politics, Mr. Williams said he already had stated to be a blanket Indian Republican—"a man who actually meant what you fellows were pretending to mean when you were applauding a moment ago." Loud applause on the Democratic side.

ON CANFIELD'S TRAIL.

New York District Attorney Urges Necessary Legislation.

Albany, N. Y., March 18.—"I want to put Richard Canfield in state's prison and I want Reginald Vanderbilt to do it," declared District Attorney Jerome of New York city to the senate codes committee in the course of a hearing on a bill to make it possible for a witness to give testimony without having his evidence used against him and which eliminates the excuse of declining to testify through fear of incriminating himself.

Amendments providing that the measure should not take effect until Sept. 1 next nor apply to pending litigation which were under discussion brought out this utterance from Mr. Jerome, who declared that the amendments would utterly destroy the effect of the bill and that if it were enacted in its present form it would give immunity to Richard Canfield and "would permit him to enjoy another season of prosperity at Saratoga."

M'COMAS SURPRISED.

Opponents of 8-Hour Bill Seem to Be Badly Informed.

Washington, March 18.—At the close of the hearing on the 8-hour bill before the senate committee on education and labor Chairman McComas expressed the utmost surprise at what he termed the misapprehension that existed among jobbers and manufacturers as to the effect of the bill if enacted into law.

He said there seemed to be a studied effort to build up objections which did not exist and to excite others who were not in the least affected by the measure. He adjourned the committee until next Tuesday and announced that the time of the speakers would then be more limited than it has been in the past.

SENATE SCHEDULE.

Labor Bills and Other Measures Will Be Side-Tracked.

Washington, March 18.—The Republican steering committee of the senate has decided to press appropriation bills to the front, side-track all legislation likely to endanger party strife and then, if the session is prolonged, place the responsibility on the Democrats. One of the members of the committee earnestly advocated adjourning by April 15, but it was agreed that this would be impossible.

The committee discussed an order of business for the rest of the session and decided to side-track the general building measures, the several labor bills, the Hepburn-Dolliver bill, and all similar legislation.
